BATTLES RAGE ON MANCHURIAN BORDER

HOOVER TAKES STEP TO ROUT DISARM FOES

"BIG NAVY" FACTION UPHOLDS SELFISH INTEREST

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1929, by the Escanaba Press)

Washington, Sept. 7—President Hoover has taken advantage of a development in the fight between the "big navy" group and the administration to disarm his opponents.

Ever since the talk of a reduction in armament between the United States and Great Britain began to be taken seriously by the two governments, the naval group in the United States has been quietly gathering strength to break down the movement. It has been one of the most vexatious phases of public policy with which Mr. Hoover has had to deal. His suspension of cruiser building was attacked as beyond the law and while there was no way to prove that selfish interests in shipbuilding were part of the opposition, it was felt that the organized attack on the president's policy was not by any means accidental.

Doesn't See Actors

Propagandists who are fighting the naval policy of the administration are not the kind who can very well come out in the open, so the administration does not see the actors behind the scene though it knows fully the effect of their work.

Under the rules laid down by President Coolidge and which are heartily concurred in by President Hoover, members of the executive branch of the government are forbidden to oppose appropriations or budget figures settled upon by the chief executive or cabinet officer. This, however, does not entirely silence army or navy officers, who manage to get their views privately before members of congress or who are summoned to appear before congressional committees and then are compelled to testify. When they get on the witness stand they often reveal opposition to the administration from the viewpoint of military or naval experts. This in itself is not challenged as improper, but it is a fact that members of congress are constantly given ammunition to support the views of big navy advocates in congress and much of this ammunition, it is believed, comes from army and navy office.

Obliged to Protect

While it is not always the case, nevertheless in many instances big navy advocates in congress from the states where large shipyards are located, or where raw materials needed in shipbuilding are located or where they are manufactured. Most members of congress have always felt obligation to protect their constituents whether it be on naval construction or on tariff duty. This administration, on the other hand, takes the view that a world at peace means a stimulated commerce and a better market both for shipbuilding and raw materials if the threat of competitive armament is eliminated and war clouds are dissipated.

The president's denunciation of William B. Shearer as a naval propagandist came after Senator Borah had called the matter to the attention of the senate naval affairs committee. It is not expected that any serious result will come from the instance because Mr. Shearer has always been an advocate of a big navy and a technical expert. If he was employed by American shipbuilding companies to go to Geneva or if he rendered service to them while there. The defense probably will be that the information was sought to keep American companies informed on the matters in which they had to be advised firsthand in detail. But to know a week or two in advance whether construction would be resumed, and whether the conference was likely to succeed or break down was something which American companies would regard under such circumstances as business information of a vital character.

Tried to Obstruct?

The big question is whether Mr. Shearer at Geneva attempted to obstruct an agreement and whether he was paid for these services or whether he was there as an agent of information on the one hand for American companies and a propagandist in his own behalf. Mr. Shearer has always been an advocate of big navy and it never was known that he was professionally employed for that purpose. It remains to be seen when he ap-

NEW POLICIES FOR EUROPE

Copyright, NEA-London Times.

These two members of the British Cabinet have furnished fireworks for the European political situation lately by offering new policies for their government in its dealings with other nations. Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson (at left) has just proposed that the League of Nations covenant be amended to harmonize with the Kellogg anti-war treaty, while Philip Snowden (right), chancellor of the exchequer, recently jarred England's former allies by demanding for England a larger share of the German reparations payments.

Victims of Air Liner Tragedy Identified; Report Crash Cause

Gallup, N. M., Sept. 9 (AP)—Identification of the remains of the eight persons who met death in the crash of the Transcontinental Air Transport ship City of San Francisco was completed tonight. Seven victims were absolutely identified and it followed that the eighth victim must have been William H. Beers of New York City.

Identification work was slow due to the charred condition of the bodies, but by checking dental work, shreds of clothing and jewelry the task finally was completed.

Beers' body had no jewelry, dental work or other marks but he was listed as a passenger and the other bodies were identified definitely.

The body of Harris Livermore was sent to Boston today for burial. C. F. Canfield's body was sent to New York. Other bodies were being held here temporarily pending instructions from relatives.

REPORT ON CAUSES

St. Louis, Sept. 9 (AP)—Transcontinental Air Transport officials including Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, chairman of the technical committee, issued a report tonight concerning probable causes of the wreck of the air liner City of San Francisco, with the loss of eight lives on Mount Taylor, N. M. The report was based on Colonel Lindbergh's observations at the scene and the telegraphic report of Paul Collins, general superintendent of the line, who directed the search and visited the wreck.

"Too many things are involved," the report said, "to give an irrefutable cause for the accident. From a survey of the facts obtainable, it is our opinion that Pilot Stowe crashed into the ground at full speed and under full control. He may have been blinded momentarily by a severe storm.

"A dangerous storm area was not indicated on any of the weather reports and must have been very local in character. Just before taking off from Albuquerque, Pilot Stowe was handed a weather report showing visibility, temperature, cloud conditions, barometric pressure and ceiling and other important weather data from 12 reporting stations in that area, three weather bureau stations and nine T. A. T. stations. At none of these places were hazardous flying conditions reported. On the same day our eastbound ship and aircraft of other companies flew the same route without encountering unusual conditions.

May Never Know Cause

"Pilot Stowe did not take off in the face of poor flying conditions nor against his better judgment as no one in the entire T. A.

FOREST FIRES SWEEP OREGON

1,000 Men Battle Flames; Homesteads, Ranches Are Razed

Portland, Ore., Sept. 9 (AP)—Forest fires swept over western Oregon woods today, threatened two towns, destroyed homebridges and ranchhouses and burned untold quantities of timber. Forestry officials declared the situation the worst in many years.

One thousand men waged a heart breaking battle against more than one hundred fires in Coos and Curry counties on the coast. The town of Powers was threatened but hope was held that the fire could we warded from the community.

The town of Port Orford, Curry county, was saved only by a quick change of wind after one residence had been destroyed and eight families driven into the street by heat. All available men and women of the community fought the blaze Saturday and Sunday.

Ranches, Homesteads Swept

In the Silverton sector forty women were taken from timber camps along the logging railroad of the Silver Falls Timber company. They gave vivid descriptions of a battle against timber and brush fires which swept over homesteads and ranches and destroyed logging equipment and buildings.

They brought news of an uni-

ELECT HUSTON TO SUCCEED HUBERT WORK

HOOVER CHOICE; SOUTHERNERS HAPPY

BY JAMES L. WEST
(Ass'd Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Sept. 9 (AP)—For the first time in the seventy-three years of its history, the Republican party today reached into the south for a chairman of its national committee, selecting Claudius H. Huston, of Tennessee, to succeed Dr. Hubert Work.

The choice of President Hoover, the new chairman was elected without opposition and under a suspension of the rules, moved by his one-time political foe, J. Will Taylor, national committeeman for the volunteer state and a member of congress from the second district.

Huston, a native of Indiana who was reared in Tennessee and now is a resident of New York City said in his speech of acceptance that the work of the national organization must be a year round task and not a mere spasmodic campaign effort.

Devote Full Time

Determined to devote full time to his new job, the Tennesseean announced that he was severing active business connections with all firms in which he holds executive posts. They are chairman of the board of the Trans-Continental Oil company; chairman of the board of the Associated Bond and Share corporation of New York; president of the Brotherhood Management corporation in charge of financial affairs of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and vice president of the Athens (Tenn.) Table and Manufacturing company.

As soon as he can make the necessary arrangements in his business affairs, Mr. Huston will move to Washington and then will begin a survey of the field to determine upon policies and upon steps to conduct a vigorous senatoria land congressional campaign in 1931.

Meantime, Ralph Williams, first vice chairman of the committee, will take charge of the national headquarters here, acting as chairman until such time as Mr. Huston can relieve him. Thereafter Mr. Williams will continue as associate and adviser of the new executive.

Work Thanks Colleagues

Calling the national committee together for his last time, Dr. work thanked his colleagues for the cooperation given him during the campaign for the election of Herbert Hoover and said that while he was gratifying a long held wish to retire from service, he would continue to cooperate with party leaders.

After the committee itself had spread upon its minutes a resolution of thanks and praise for the services of the retiring chairman, Vice Chairman Williams read a letter from President Hoover giving public expression to "The high appreciation I hold, and which I know the country generally holds, for the many public services given by Dr. Work."

With the Work resignation accepted, Huston's name was placed before the committee by a woman, Mrs. Beulah H. Hughes, national committeewoman for Tennessee. Seconding speeches came in such rapid order that finally William G. Skelly, national committeeman for Oklahoma, had it made a matter of record that such addresses had been made by all members of the committee.

South Delighted

Southern members hailed the nomination with delight, R. B. Creager said he spoke "for the no longer solid south and the former but no longer banner Democratic state of Texas."

C. Bascom Slemp said he seconded the nomination for "the Republican state of Virginia" and predicted that in the contest for state offices in the old dominion this fall the Republicans would repeat the victory of 1928.

As Huston was escorted to the platform the members of the committee arose and gave him an ovation. He immediately made his opening address amid interruptions for applause and then adjourned the meeting after James Francis Burke, of Pittsburgh, general counsel, had been elected a member of the execu-

Day in Washington

(By The Associated Press)

Claudius H. Huston of Tennessee succeeded Dr. Hubert Work as chairman of the Republican national committee.

Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, introduced a resolution to bar William S. Vare of Pennsylvania from a seat in the senate which was given precedence over tariff consideration.

Members of the house were notified that no business will be transacted in that branch of congress until October 14.

The senate began work on the tariff issue with consideration of the Simmons resolution seeking income tax date from the treasury for use in debate.

Senate investigation of the activities of William B. Shearer, big navy advocate, at the unsuccessful 1927 Geneva disarmament conference seemed assured.

William E. Brock of Chattanooga took the oath as successor to the late Senator Lawrence D. Tyson of Tennessee.

SHEARER USED FILE OF NAVY

Was Source of Information Given Press at Arms Parley

New York, Sept. 9, (AP)—A confidential file of the intelligence service of the U. S. Navy, sent to him anonymously from Washington, was the source of information he gave the press at the Geneva Arms Limitation conferences in 1926 and 1927, William B. Shearer, big navy advocate, declared today.

Shearer said he expected to go to Washington tomorrow night to appear before the senate naval affairs committee which meets tomorrow to consider Senator Borah's suggestion that it investigate Shearer's activities at Geneva. Senator Borah's suggestion followed President Hoover's request for an investigation by the attorney general.

"And I shall take that file with me to show to the committee," he added.

Worked With Press.

Shearer also said that his activities at Geneva, both in 1926 and 1927, were confined exclusively to the press, and that he had no dealings whatsoever with any participants in the conference.

"I never met any of the participants as a lobbyist or tried to influence them," he declared. "I was not directly interested in what they were doing. What I went over for was to see that the figures and facts got into the papers."

The navy file, he said contained figures and other data to show the comparative strength of all the navies in the world and the strength, condition and needs of the U. S. navy.

Confidential File.

"Was it a secret file?" he was asked.

"Not exactly secret, perhaps," he replied, "but certainly confidential"

In a large navy envelope, unstamped and marked "U. S. navy official business, the file was mailed to him at the Hotel Grosvenor, New York City, he said, just before he sailed for Europe in 1926 to attend the Geneva conference. He said he did not know who sent it.

Shearer made his statements after denying he had ever in any public statement given as the sources of his information four American admirals.

Denies British Disbarment.

He also denied today a news dispatch quoting several London newspapers as saying he had been barred from Great Britain as an undesirable alien. According to the London dispatches he applied for a Visa to visit the country, was refused, and then appealed in vain to Prime Minister MacDonald.

"I have not even applied for a passport in Washington, let alone

PAN-EUROPA, BRIAND IDEA, GIVEN BIRTH

CONFEDERATION OF COUNTRIES IS SOUGHT

BY JOSEPH E. SHARKEY
(Associated Press Correspondent)

Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 9 (AP)—Pan-Europa was born today. Premier Aristide Briand of France, who inspired the pact of Paris for the renuciation of war, known as the Kellogg past, successfully gave to the vivifying light of Geneva this afternoon his immense project to form the European state into a great federation.

The infant is weak, of course; its exact destiny unknown, but its lungs are strong and its baby cries seem lusty.

Twenty-eight representatives of European countries gathered for Pan-Europa's birth today at a banquet board laden with the choicest wonders of French culinary art and the finest wines of Europe.

Work on Idea

Meeting after this luncheon under the chairmanship of Premier Briand they decided they would attempt to bring into force the idea of a European confederation hitherto described as "the United States of Europe."

The decision came after the great French statesman had expounded to his guests his project for creating some kind of confederation.

Premier Briand was appointed to draft a memorondum on his favorite project and the memorandum will be sent to all European governments for study. When their replies have been received and digested, Premier Briand will make a new report incorporating them.

Meet Next Year

A new conference of European nations then will be called at Geneva next year, probably at the same time as one of the league assembly meetings.

Immediately after the luncheon Premier Briand told the Associated Press correspondent that nobody had spoken against his project, though several statesmen had stated their preference that any such organization be chiefly econmoic in its functions.

The foreign misinster of one European country, who preferred that his name should not be used, told the correspondent tonight that "we reached an agreement not to divulge the remarks of individual speakers."

For Nations Betterment

"But if you want my opinion," he said, "it is this: Our great project has been launched, but it is directed neither against the United States of America nor Soviet Russia."

Premier Benes, the distinguished statesman of Czechoslakia, allowed himself to be quoted by the correspondent.

"Our government will be in favor of this project because we wish to push forward further economic cooperation between European states. Another reason is that we wish to make disappear the bad consequences of the Great War, and a third reason is that a confederation will constitute a guarantee for small nations."

Leaders Attend

Besides M. Briand, the speakers who participated in the after-luncheon discussion were Foreign Secretary Stressmann of Germany,. Foreign Secretary Hymans of Belgium, Foreign Secretary Motta of Switzerland and Foreign Secretary Marinroviteh of Jugo-Slavia.

M. Briand was most careful to point out to the government leaders present today that nothing in his proposed federation must partake of a movement inimical to any continent or against any country.

This conception of Briand's idea was approved by other speakers, it is understood. The reaction of Stressmann to the Pan-European movement already had been publicly voiced at the forenoon session of the league assembly. At the luncheon he virtually repeated his views proclaimed at the assembly which were that the suggested confederation should in scope be limited to economic problems. He wants trade barriers removed and as in the United States wants one monetary system and one postal system. He conceives of Europe as an economic whole and insists

Freighters Collide at Sea

(By The Associated Press)

Serious shipping accidents in various parts of the world since Saturday include:

S. S. Kuru, capsized Saturday off Tammerfors, Finland, with estimated loss of 100 lives, 20 rescued.

S. S. Dan, sank Sunday in Baltic off Danzig, 1 rescued out of crew of 35.

Tanker Vimeira, caught fire at Rotterdam, Monday, 3 killed, 8 missing.

S. S. Highland Pride, said to be "total loss" after striking reef Monday near Vigo, Spain. Ninety-eight passengers and 150 crew reached land unassisted.

S. S. Heimdahl, wrecked on rock northeast of Stockholm on Monday. The 70 on board escaped to shore.

Unnamed German tanker reported by two vessels on fire in the North Sea on Monday. The crew were standing by in boats and not in need of assistance.

Schooner Santa Quinta, sank off Nova Scotia and crew were landed Monday at Halifax by rescuing steamer.

S. S. American Legion, sailed from Montevideo for New York after temporary repairs necessitated by grounding in fog at harbor entrance several days ago.

S. S. Emile Francqui reported by radio collision with the S. S. Gunny on Monday night 200 miles southeast of Boston. Both vessels were able to proceed toward their destinations.

New York, Spet. 9 (AP)—The Radio Marine Corporation tonight received a radiogram from the Belgian freighter Emile Francqui stating that it had collided with the Norwegian freighter Gunny about 200 miles southwest of Boston. Neither ship was seriously damaged and both were proceeding to their destinations.

First news of the collision was contained in a general radio call to stand by, sent out by the British freighter London Express. It gave the position as "41 north, 67.20 west." Later messages explained that the call was sent out for another ship which had collided with the Emile Francqui, but which it had been unable to identify.

It was nearly an hour before the Emile Francqui sent a radiogram that it had learned the other ship was the freighter Gunny and that it was not badly damaged.

"Proceeding to New York," this mesage said. "Ship that collided with us was Norweagian S. S. Gunny, which proceeded to Montreal and requires no assistance."

The Emile Francqui sailed from Antwerp, Belgium, August 31 for New York. The steamer Gunny sailed from Tampa, Fla., September 2 for Montreal.

Immigration Agent Found Slain; Alien Blamed for Crime

Marfa, Texas, Sept. 9, (AP)—Miles J. Scannell, Assistant Chief United States Immigration Patrol Inspector was murdered, presumably by an alien seeking illegal entry to this country, fifteen miles east of Presidio today. Scannell was shot twice and stabbed fifteen times.

Scannell's throat had been cut from ear to ear. A terrific struggle apparently took place those who found the body on the banks of the Rio Grande, said.

Scannell's gun and handcuffs were gone, leading fellow officers to believe that he had captured one of a group of aliens coming into this country, and that the prisoners friends had rescued him.

Scannell's assailants are believed to have gone back across the river into Mexico.

Robert Roosevelt Stricken by Death

New York, Sept. 9, (AP)—Robert B. Roosevelt, a cousin of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, died of heart disease today at his summer home, Sayville, Long Island, after an illness of six months. He was 63 years old.

Dallas, Texas, Sept. 9, (AP)—Tom Mix, motion picture actor and circus performer, is nursing a fractured shoulder blade, suffered when his horse fell during a circus act here yesterday. Mix continued riding with his arm in a sling.

RAIL CENTER FIGHT SCENE LAST 3 DAYS

WASHINGTON CONFIDENT WAR WILL NOT RESULT

(By The Associated Press)

Real war seems to have started along the Manchurian border between the Chinese province of Kirin and the Siberian maritime province in the sector where Russian and Chinese forces for a month have been strengthening their positions.

The strategic railway center of Pogranichnaya, eastern terminal of the Chinese Eastern railway, has been the scene of fierce fighting for the last three days. It has changed hands twice in the heaviest fighting yet to occur, since the beginning of the Manchurian dispute two months ago.

Despatches from various points in the far east—Harbin, Mukden, Shanghai and Tokyo, indicate the seriousness of the fighting, artillery and airplanes were used by the Russians. However, there has been no report of any large number of casualties, which may indicate exaggeration of the gravity of the situation.

For six weeks Russian troops have been moving into the Ussuri district. Reports have said there were 30,000 Soviet soldiers between Vladivostock and Khabarovsk. Shanghai reported Chinese reinforcements hurrying northward where fighting is supposed to be progressing along "the entire Manchurian-Siberian frontier." This would mean along a 2,000-mile stretch of primitive country and the report is probably high speculative.

Hampers Peace Move

The inception of the trouble seems to have been the blowing up of a Chinese Eastern railway passenger train Saturday after the tracks had been mined with high explosives. Three thousand Russian troops are supposed to have crossed into Chinese territory for raiding purposes. Apparently they were driven back and the Chinese still hold their positions.

The new flare-up in Manchuria comes at a time when it seemed likely that diplomatic negotiations would result in an amicable settlement of the dispute which arose when Chinese provincial authorities seized the administration of the Chinese Eastern railway and ousted Russian staff members.

WASHINGTON CALM

Washington, Sept. 9 (AP)—Despite the serious character of reports of fighting in Manchuria between Soviet Russian and Chinese troops, state department officials tonight maintained their confidence that open warfare between the two nations would not result.

The department had received no information on the reported

MERCUR BESTS COGGESHALL

Match Goes Five Sets; Lott Has Tough Time With Hall

BY TED VOSBURGH
(Ass'd Press Sports Writer)

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 9 (AP)—While Big Bill Tilden casually looked on from a seat in the officials stand, two of his leading rivals for the national singles crown were extended to the limit in second round matches this afternoon by the country's fourteenth and fifteenth ranking players.

Having drawn a bye in the first round and reached the third with an easy victory on Saturday, Big Bill was among the 10,000 spectators who saw Dritz Mercur finally nose out Harris Coggeshall, of Des Moines, Iowa, No. 14 in the national rating list, in five hard sets, 7-5, 6-5, 2-6, 5-7, 7-5, and then watched J. Gilbert Hall of South Orange, N. J., ranked No. 15, give George Lott stroke for stroke and ace for ace.

Lott, young Chicago internationalist who is looked upon as the man Tilden will have to beat to win this title for the seventh time, eventually captured the first set from Hall, but only by the close and attentuated scores of 10-8. The two were even at one-all in the second set when a drenching rain dispersed the gallery and terminated play.

Hall Stages Battle

The grim and determined Hall was a picturesque figure as he fought to overcome the Davis Cup star who took a set from Henri Cochet in the challenge round at Paris. His shirt soaking with perspiration and his white trousers smeared with mud from many falls on the damp turf, Hall dashed and reeled around the court in the heat that preceded the shower at a pace that forced Lott to his best efforts. Not until the twenty-second game when Hall double-faulted twice was Lott able to score the first service break and take the set although he had been only a point away from winning it on repeated occasions.

The tall, be-spectacled Coggeshall likewise put up an inspiring last-ditch battle before he succumbed to Mercur's more varied attack and greater experience. The smooth-playing Bethlehem, Pa., star, ranking seventh in the United States, four notches below Lott, started auspiciously by winning the first two sets although both were carried to deuce.

But there Coggeshall's bullet-like drives from deep court began to take their toll. Angling his shots and mixing them up with occasional lobs the Iowan tok five straight games for the third set and four straight to win the fourth, squaring the match. Mercur's superior volleying alone served to carry him through to victory in the final set.

Britons Advance

England's foremost contenders advanced more easily, Henry Austin subduing Herbert L. Bowman of New York, 6-2, 6-3, 6-0, and Ted Avory, Cambridge university player, eliminating Ed Burns, another New Yorker, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4.

In something of an upset, David N. Jones, of Columbia university, overcame Phil Neer, San Francisco, holder of the intercollegiate championship eight years ago, at 15-13, 6-1, 8-6. Wilmer Allison and Berkeley Bell, the Texans, and Julius Seligson of Lehigh university were among the second round winners. Allison downed one of the southern contenders, Ted Burwell, of Charlotte, N. C., 6-0, 6-2, 6-4; Bell defeated Bruce Barnes, a fellow student at the University of Texas, for the third time in four meetings this year, 6-2, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3; and Seligson overwhelmed L. H. Wiley, Hartford, Conn., 6-1, 6-1, 6-1.

Resume Match Today

The Lott-Hall match is to be resumed tomorrow at 11 a. m. while the only other unfinished match, in which Edward Feibleman was leading a fellow New Yorker, Dr. George King at 6-3, 6-4, 3-6, 3-5, is scheduled for 12:30 p. m. The program of third round matches is:

1 p. m.—Bunny Austin, England, vs. Harold MacGuffin, Philadelphia.

2 p. m.—John Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif., vs. William B. Wood, Jr., Boston.

3 p. m.—William T. Tilden, 2nd, Philadelphia, vs. Frank Shields, New York.

4:30 p. m.—Wilmer Allison, Fort Worth, Texas, vs. winner of Lott-Hall match.

Henry B. Bassford, Scarsdale, N. Y., began defense of his national veterans' championship, competing for men over 45 years of age, by defeating G. A. Boyce, New York, 6-1, 6-1.

J. B. Adoue, Jr., Dallas, Texas, defeated John Morgan, New York, 6-2, 6-3.

SENATE BEGINS TARIFF WORK

Resolution Seeking Tax Secrets Defers Test of Strength

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Sept. 9 (AP)—The senate finally got to work on the tariff issue today, but the first test of strength of the contending groups was deferred after several hours' discussion of the Simmons resolution seeking income tax data from the treasury for use in arguing for or against proposed changes in import levies.

Indications at the close that the Democrats were not ready for a vote, but hoped greater strength could be mustered for the tax publicity proposal tomorrow on resumption of debate.

When the senate will begin discussion of the bill itself was problematical in view of the attempt started at the outset of proceeding by Senaor Norris, Republican, Nebraska, to obtain disposition of the long-pending Vare case. His resolution bearing on the senatorial seat contest has privileged status and early action on it can be demanded.

Leaders Participate

The day's debate saw all of the tariff leaders of both parties participating, with Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking Democrat on the finance committee and author of the tax data proposal, and Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, chairman of the committee, making the principal arguments for and against the resolution.

Simmons said his sole purpose was to ascertain information that may be helpful to the senate in determining whether industries of the country are entitled to the increased tariff protection they demanded. If it were shown that industry were making large profits under existing law, he said, then they were not entitled to increased duties.

Smoot charged the resolution was an attempt "through the consequent delay" to bring about ultimate defeat of the tariff bill.

Attempt Defeat of Bill?

"The price to be paid is certain," he said. "The consequences are certain. The establishment of the principle of income tax publicity; the opportunity to attempt to harass a few individual taxpayers; prolonged and indefinite delay in the consideration of the bill—these are the real issues presented by the resolution."

A vote for the resolution, he added, would be an endorsement of all of "these propositions," and with each senator appreciating this he was willing to hasten to vote upon it.

SPANISH WAR VETERANS MEET

Governor Green in Field for Commander-in-Chief's Post

Denver, Sept. 9 (AP)—Taking a direct slap at an effort made by one Spanish American war veterans camp in the Washington, Alaska department to limit its membership to the white race and criticizing conditions n many of the government hospitals and soldiers homes throughout the coutry the annual report of the officers of the U. S. A. W. V., was placed in the hands of thousands of delestates at the opening session of the national encampment here today.

In one instance, the report reveals, veteran hospital patients suffering with mental diseases are kept in a ward also used for "sobering up" drunks. Inspection of another government institution discolosed that bootleggers in the nearest towns, four miles away, victimize the veterans.

A number of the institutions devoted to the veterans are overcrowded and consist of old buildings which are a fire menace, the report contends.

Racial Prejudice Bared

In other funds to supply the inmates with respectable uniforms are not available, so the veterans put up a ragged and tattered appearance the report charges.

The slap at the effort of one of the veteran's organizations to limit its membership along racial lines was taken in the report of the natonal judge advocate general. He ruled that a bylaw of the camp excluding as members all persons not of the white race was invalid and quoted a decision to the same effect of a former judge advocate general.

The political campaign in the national encampment was developing rapidly as two candidates appeared in the field for commander in chief for the ensuing year.

Green vs. Scott

With Governor Fred W. Green of Michigan as the candidate of the administration group and Cal. Winifield Scott, former commissioner of pensions as his leadng opponent, the race promsed to be the most hotly contested in years.

Developments today indicated that Otto N. Raths, St. Paul theatre ower and present senior vice-commander of the national organization may withdray from the race, members of the Minnesota delegation said.

Contest loomed between various cities to entertain the national encampment in future years. Philadelphia and Tampa, Fla., are considered among the leading contenders for the next encampment. The veterans hold their encampments alternately in the west and the east. Rivals for the 1931 encampment are Phoenix, Ariz., and New Orleans, La.

Mrs. Ravens Keynoter

The keynote address of the convention was delivered today by Mrs. Oliver M. Ravens, Lansing, Mich., president of the women's auxiliary, who declared:

"Veterans, you are fighting the greatest fight of your existence, the battle to force the '50-50' pension bill through the December session of congress." Her address climaxed an inspiring session marked by a fervid declaration by General Pedro E. Betancourt, personal representative of the president of Cuba, that the people of his country are "and will be ready to mingle our blood with yours in defense of your country and flag—now and forevermore."

applying for a British Visa," he said.

"Because I was informed at Geneva in 1927 that it would be advisable for me never to put my foot on British territory owing to my activities in issues of national defense for my own country. I wrote to the British prime minister asking that, if I should visit England, I be accorded the same courtesy that is extended to a British subject visiting our country.

Note Not Answered.

"I did so because I anticipated that the pending naval conference would be held in London. If it was, I wanted to go. And I did not expect to go unless it was. I have not yet made any formal application for permission to visit England.

In reply to my letter to the prime minister, I received a brief and formal note from the British foreign office, courteously acknowledging its receipt and stating it had been turned over to the prime minister.

"And that's all I've heard from the British government. If I am barred from their country, they have not informed me.

"Let me add that I greatly admire the British attitude on nationalism—that anyone who doesn't agree with them is barred by the press. There seems to be somewhat of a leak in the British foreign office that should be investigated."

Sues Shipbuilders.

Shearer, who is head of a marine fuel and paint company, said he attended the 1926 Geneva conference at his own expense, simply because he was interested in "seeing our own navy get a break."

When he went back in 1927, he said, he was on the payroll of the three big shipbuilding concerns he now is suing for more than $200,000 in back salary.

"I was on their payroll, but I was not hired for that job specifically," he declared.

Shearer's suit here against the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, The American Brown-Boveri Electrical Company, and The Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation attracted the attention of President Hoover and resulted in his request for an investigation.

pears before the senate committee whether his position is any different from that of many of the lawyers who appear inadvocacy of a cause and get paid for so doing.

The whole subject of paid propaganda and lobbying has been discussed in congress from time to time but nothing tangible has ever been done about it. President Wilson described against the lobbyists when the Underwood tariff bill was under discussion and Mr. Coolidge complained about the efforts to frustrate his economy program. In both instances a declaration from the White House was effective and the probabilities are that Mr. Hoover's aggressive statement will do for his disarmament policy what was accomplished by his predecessor—namely, a driving to cover of opponents and a squelching of opposition. It is true that Mr. Hoover is a belated participant in the controversy and that news of Shearer's suit against the shipbuilding companies for money due for services rendered at Geneva is a month old, but from stragetic point of view it is considered nevertheless effective and may have its repercussions abroad, where Premier MacDonald is supposed to be having the same kind of trouble with big navy forces.

REPORT QUIET IN PALESTINE

Few Disorders Occur But Are of Minor Character

Jerusalem, Sept. 9, (AP)—Jewish sources today reported scattered disorders of a minor character, but official statements were that all Palestine was quiet.

Most serious of the Jewish charges was that Arab fruit dealers had poisoned goods sold to Jews. A woman was said to have been made ill by eating grapes sold by an Arab merchant. He was arrested in Jaffa and the remainder of the grapes sent to the health department for examination. Other instances were reported.

These poison tales intensified the boycott which Jews have sustained against Arab dealers since the rioting between the two races broke out. As a result, the Jewish telegraphic agency reported that Jewish housewives were finding great difficulty in procuring provisions and several Arab farming communities complained that they were suffering extremely from the boycott. The leading Jewish hotel in Jerusalem was able to serve only rice at one meal.

Feeling Heightened.

Uneasiness of feeling between the two communities was added to by an attack on a Jewish policeman outside Haifa. He was seriously wounded. The Jewish telegraphic agency reported shooting last night in the suburb Givath Shaul as the result of which several Jewish families abandoned their homes today.

Jews of Acre, except for 48 who were under arrest, were reported by the agency today to have abandoned the town in favor of Haifa. Several Jews had been stoned there. It was said that those arrested were taken when they met to organize for self-defense.

The agency also reported 22 Jews under arrest for possessing arms in Jerusalem, Jaffa and Tel Aviv. A special committee has been appointed by the Jewish agency for reconstruction work which will expend the $400,000 already available.

FOREST FIRES SWEEP OREGON

dentified elderly woman seriously burned by the fires which swept away the old buildings of an entire camp, and reported the destruction of many homesteads in the path of the roaring flames. Many of the women told of losing everything in their homes as the houses were consumed by the advance wall of fire.

Two great fires southwest of Powers, Coos county, converged and out of control were slowly eating their way to the boundary of the Siskiyou reservations. Foresters said they feared the fires would reach the National forest if a northwest wind came up.

Woman Seriously Burned

Millions of feet of Port Orford cedar, hundreds of acres of green timber and many ranchhouses were threatened by the Coos and Curry county fires.

Mrs. August Franks, critically burned Saturday when a forest fire swept over her farm, was in Silverton hospital. Physicians held little hope for her recovery.

HELEN HICKS LEADS DERBY

Young Girl Plays Par-Shattering Golf in Women's Tourney

BY PAUL R. MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 8 (AP)—Helen Hicks, sturdy 18 year old shotmaker from Inwood, Long Island, breezed over the heavily trapped Flossmoor Country Club course today with par-shattering golf to gain a four stroke lead at the quarter mark of the derby, a 72 hole medal play event sponsored by the Western Women's Golf Association and open to the world.

Playing the same type of golf that made her the sensation of last winter's tournaments in the south. Miss Hicks carded a 38, three under par, going out today and then came home with a 40, one over par, for a 78 total. Her closest rival in the small but brilliant field was Mrs. Austin Pardue of Hibbing, Minnesota, who had rounds of 40-42—82.

Iron Play Perfect

Perfect iron play was responsible for Miss Hicks' score. While some of her drives and fairway wooden shots sailed the pellet into rough, she consistenly retrieved by laying pretty iorns within easy putting distance of the green. All told she bagged three birdies—all of them on the first nine holes—and went over par on only the twelfth which lies at the end of a hilly 447 yard stretch. On this hole she sliced her drive into a trap and pulled her second into another, taking a six. Her birdies were scored on the 512 yard first, where she laid a mashie niblick putt for a five; on the 550 yard third where a pretty third iron shot placed her ball within easy two putting distance from the cup and the 397 yard ninth where she sank a 12 foot down hill putt for a four. Except for the twelfth hole she scored even par on the last nine holes.

Mrs. Pardue was more erratic, an eagle four on the first hole by a pretty spoon shot, a birdie on the third and going two over par on the 175 yard second with a five and one over perfect figures on the twelfth, thirteenth and seventeenth.

A pair of veteran Chicagoans, Mrs. Lee Mida and Mrs. Melvin Jones, tied for third place at the end of the initial 18 holes test with eighty-threes. Mrs. Meda is the so-called defending champion of the derby although it has been extended from 54 to 72 holes this year in an attempt to develop a national medal play classic for women golfers.

Miss Orcutt Next

One stroke behind was Maureen Orcutt, present metropolitan champion and a big favorite from White Beeches, N. Y., Miss Orcutt could not get her putter to work today for three putted six greens, taking 41 going out and a 43 coming home.

Other leaders at the end of the first included Mrs. George Lifur of Los Angeles, 42-43—85; Mrs. Leo Federaman, Fresh Medows, N. Y., 43-43—86; Virginia Van Wie of Chicago 47-40—87; Frances Hadfield, Milwaukee, 44-44—88; Bernie Wall, Oshkosh, Wis. 45-44—89; Gertrude Boothby, Rochester Minn., 43-46—89 and Mrs. J. H. Indig, Tampa, Fla., 41-49—90.

Three additional 18 hole rounds will be played during the next three days.

Businessmen Decide To Close Shops In Gladstone Thursday

Gladstone, Sept. 9, (Special)—At a meeting of representatives of the business houses here tonight, it was voted to close the stores, schools and other business institutions Thursday afternoon, Sept. 19 so that employes and school children could attend the second annual upper peninsula state fair at Escanaba on that date.

It was originally planned to close the offices here Monday, the first day of the fair so as to avoid midweek congestion at the fairgrounds but many of the large plants in Gladstone would be unable to close their shops on that day. Saturday afternoon is a half-holiday in many of the institutions here and as there are no operations Sunday, it was deemed unadvisable to extend this holiday over Monday. In view of the conditions it was decided to name Thursday as a half-holiday and all institutions including the public schools will cooperate in halting operations on that day.

that Europe should get away from things which are too reminiscent of the middle ages.

Stress Economic Side

No speaker opposed the principle of M. Briand's project though the tenor of discussion was that the organization of Europe should be along economic rather than polictical lines.

What constitutional form, if any, the proposed confederation would take, it is now too early to forecast.

Receiving journalists from all nations tonight Briand in fine humor answered questions about his confederation plan, but insisted that the communique which was read previously adequately told the whole story.

Not Against Any Nation

M. Briand particularly stressed the point that his project was directed against no nation. That, he said, was the essence of the remarks of all present at the luncheon. "If there was any idea of combating any nation in my project I would never have launched it," he said.

A second point he emphasized was that the project, being regional in character was authorized by the covenant of the league which extends its approval to all such understandings.

He believed that a united Europe would give great impetus to the consolidation of peace. No two members of the confederation could, he thought, long continue their quarrels because the confederation would deem it against the interests of the whole. He believed the confederation would be useful socially, economically and politically.

Daring Project

"I know my project is a daring one," he continued, "but we must have temerity if we would achieve things."

M. Briand first balked and then broke out in clear language when a European newspaperman tried to draw him into a discussion of the position of Soviet Russia in his proposed new organization. The question put to him was whether they would solicit entrance of Russia into the scheme.

"We are not soliciting anyone," the French premier retorted. "It seems to me that sometimes people might solicit us When I launched my idea for the pact of Paris calling for renunciation of war we did not solicit anyone. The aristocratic idea of soliciting someone is not in the spirit of the League of Nations."

Then he added so as to make his thought perfectly clear, "probably our proposed organization will be open to all European states."

The two negro members of the committee—Perry W. Howard, of Mississippi and Minnie Williams, of Georgia—were present. Neither is recognized by the Hoover administration in the handling of state patronage matters.

Another national committeeman from the south, Joseph W. Tolbert, of South Carolina, who also has failed to gain recognition from the administration, also answered to the roll call which showed 91 of the 105 members present.

renewal of hostilities, although all American officials in China were instructed by Secretary Stimson sometime ago to report fully on all developments in the strained relations between China and Russia.

The belief was held here that the fighting was more in the form of border clashes which had been feared because of the proximity of the opposing troops and not authorized campaigns.

SOVIETS RETALIATE

Moscow, U. S. S. R., Sept. 9 (AP)—The foreign commissariat tonight stated that Soviet troops had been compelled to take firm retaliatory action for the protection of the Siberian frontier and its peaceful population. It alleged there had been 19 new attacks by Chinese and White Guards.

"It is quite possible that full facts concerning the cause of the tragedy will never be known but the company realizes its obligation to make public such facts and will do so if they are ever available.

"Because of the scores of planes, military, commercial and private, which aided T. A. T. in its search, it will be some time before the searching fleet can be disbanded and the T. A. T. fleet and personnel returned to their proper stations. The mechanics of T. A. T. from Columbus to Los Angeles having been assembled at Winslow, were engaged day and night in the task of keeping the searching fleet in proper condition. Regular schedules over T. A. T. will be resumed as soon as equipment and personnel are properly ready.

"Officials of T. A. T. are appreciative of the splendid cooperation given by army and navy planes, planes of other commercial operators and private owners.

"This shocking tragedy has not lessened our confidence in the present value of commercial aviation any more than a railroad or a steamship catastrophe can destroy the value of these means of transportation.

"We deeply regret that air transport which has made such rapid strides in the past few years, should be afflicted with its tragedies just as are the railroad, the sea and the highway.

"T. A. T. has spared neither expense nor labor in its efforts to make flying safe. This experience, sad as it is, will only spur us to work the harder."

AILMENTS FADE BEFORE POWERS OF NEW KONJOLA

Lady Relates Fine Experience With New and Different Medicine

MRS. LESLIE LEWIS

"I felt sick in so many ways that I feared nothing would help me," said Mrs. Leslie Lewis, 458 Hall street, S. E., Grand Rapids Mich. "My blood was filled with poisons and impurities and resulted in swelling of my feet. Stomach trouble soon became chronic, and I was unable to retain any foods. Gas and bloating was prevalent and made me short of breath.

"I heard and read so much about Konjola that I finally decided to give it a chance. It cleansed my blood and regulated my organs to a more normal healthy functioning. Digestion was restored and my appetite increased. Today there isn't a trace of either ailment and I feel like a different person. Konjola certainly deserves all the praise it receives, and I heartily indorse it."

Konjola is sold in Escanaba, Mich., at Peoples drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

SENIORS VOTE FOR BI-WEEKLY

Live Newspaper to Take Place of Annual at High School

The Senior class of Escanaba high school yesterday by a vote of 135 to 11 decided to abolish the publication of a yearbook, and authorized the establishment of a bi-weekly newspaper, which, it is felt, will provide students with a more comprehensive account of the year's activities.

Substantial covers will be provided for the newspaper so that a permanent binding can be made at the end of the year. The newspaper will probably be five columns wide, and will have 13 column inches. It will be profusely illustrated with cuts which will greatly enhance the permanent value of each issue. Editions of unusual size and elaborateness will chronicle the happenings of various athletic seasons.

The idea of substituting a live newspaper for the traditional annual is an innovation in high school publications, it was stated yesterday. No school in this section has adopted the plan which is said to have originated in Cleveland, one of the most progressive school cities in the country.

Upon Leo Coan, editor-in-chief, and Orvil Aronson, business manager, falls the task of successfully starting the new project. They will be assisted by an able corps of journalism students.

DELTA TO HAVE NEW DIRECTORY

Crew of Men Employed by Polk & Co. to Start At Once

A crew of 15 workmen under the direction of George A. Case will begin Wednesday the task of compiling a new directory for Delta county, replacing the book published two years ago by R. L. Polk & Co., of Detroit.

One month will be occupied in gathering the necessary information, and another month will be needed for printing, so the volume will probably be issued in December.

The buyers' guide and classified departments of the directory will also be published in a separate booklet this year, it was stated by directory officials. This booklet, which will be about the size of the telephone directory, will be distributed free to every home.

The Polk company is planning an attractive format for the new directory. Board covers will have a red imitation leather back.

Local men will be enlisted by Mr. Case in securing directory information as soon as work gets under way here.

England expects 350,000 foreign visitors this year.

A MAN of vision made that statement. Ten years ago he began investing in Cities Service Common stock. His first purchase—only a few shares—was made with a modest sum he had been able to put aside.

PUNISHING THE HIGHWAYS

New regulations for the moving of steam shovels and other heavy mechanical equipment on heavy trailers over the state roads have been issued by the state highway department in an effort to prevent serious damage to pavements. It was high time that something was done to protect the roads against harsh punishment such as that inflicted by unusual loads. In many instances movements of machinery like that described have represented an imposition not only upon the taxpayers but upon the traveling public as well.

It is the intention of the highway department, in issuing the new regulations, to encourage such movements by railway. On the railway they most certainly belong, except of course when only short hauls are required. A good pavement can be damaged severely by a heavy piece of machinery, and likewise there is the question of traffic holdups to be considered.

Reckless driving must still be reckoned with in Michigan, despite the repeal of the arbitrary speed law. Reckless driving can be excessive speed or it can be excessive slowness, or the imposition of unreasonable strain upon the highway structure. It is likely that the new restrictions do not represent the last word on the subject, but are in reality merely a beginning. The problem of unreasonable demands upon our roadway facilities has been calling rather loudly for attention during the past few years, and there is reason to expect that drastic regulations which the recently announced rules merely suggest, will be necessary before long.

The highways were intended for the use of the general public, and not for abuse by a few private interests.

SINCLAIR'S APPEAL.

IT APPEARS that Harry F. Sinclair is growing somewhat tired of prison life. Perhaps the novelty has worn off and the oil magnate is ready for a new adventure. At all events, he has let it be known that his release would not be displeasing. Indeed, he has even gone so far as to ask President Hoover to attend to the little matter.

Mr. Hoover hasn't, however, appeared intensely sympathetic. It seems somewhat likely that Mr. Sinclair will be obliged to tarry behind the bars until his three-month sentence has been served. To be sure, the wealthy convict has cited impaired health as a good reason for granting him his liberty, and for humane reasons his health must be considered, but it would seem that an authoritative opinion with respect to that phase of the case might be obtainable. There is, in fact, some official data on the subject. "The applicant is in reasonably good health and spirits, and is suffering no serious bodily or mental damage by his confinement," says the prison report.

It is likely enough that Sinclair has found the confinement more irksome than unhealthful. The suffering to which he has been subjected probably is psychological. His dignity may have been injured, likewise. But he is lucky to have escaped with merely three months of imprisonment, in view of the supreme court opinion labeling his oil-lease transaction as "tainted with fraud and corruption." The sentence was pronounced for contempt of the senate and for jury shadowing, however, and that was an exceedingly good break.

He should not be given his liberty unless it is discovered that the ill health excuse is legitimate, and it seems improbable that the short time he has served in the prison, with extremely easy labor as his lot, could have worked any serious harm. Justice demands that he serve out his time. It would be poor public policy to let him out except under most serious circumstances involving the question of humane practices.

SKEPTICS AND MIRACLES

A FEW days ago the papers told about a woman preacher who had been elected mayor of a small Louisiana city.

Telling reporters how she filled her job, the preacher-mayor remarked that she always prayed for divine guidance whenever an especially tough problem came up. Then she told this little story:

Her city had no water or electric light service. For years efforts had been made to provide them, but they had always fizzled out. She had conferred with business men, civic leaders and others, but had been unable to make any headway.

So, one night, utterly discouraged, she knelt and prayed that divine aid might come to the rescue and help the little city get the modern conveniences it needed so badly.

The next day—out of a clear sky, so to speak—a group of business men called at her office and told her that they were going to form a corporation to establish a water and electricity supply for the city.

Thus—she told the reporters—her prayers had been answered. What weeks of effort had failed to do, a prayer had accomplished.

Now it is altogether too easy for us to scoff at that story.

Many a reader, no doubt, laid down his paper and snorted, "Humph! Those men had laid their plans already. Prayer or no prayer, they'd have been ready to go ahead with the job. She's just kidding herself if she thinks her prayer really did anything.

That may be true and it may not be. Meanwhile, one is moved to wonder why it is that a generation whose daily life is attended by uncounted miracles should be so much more skeptical about things that it cannot see and handle than all previous generations have been.

When you sit in your home at night and tune in on a radio program, picking music out of the silent air, you are taking part in a thing as wondrous as the star over Bethlehem.

Suppose you turn on your phonograph. Whom do you want to hear? Caruso? Very well; he has been dead seven years, but he will sing for you, his voice as clear and rich as ever, though his body is dust.

Far over your housetop soars an air mail plane. The pilot cannot see the earth below. Mist obscures the beacon lights. But that same miracle of radio tells him, unfailingly, that he is on his course.

Those things are commonplace. We have even stopped marveling at them.

The mystery of prayer is far older—old as the day that the first barbaric cave dweller made his first desperate appeal for help to the forces that he could not see.

Why should we be skeptical? Have we swallowed our new miracles only to reject one that is as old and familiar as the race itself?

THE VALUE OF THE GRAF'S FLIGHT.

DURING the past year it has been the practice to examine carefully every outstanding performance in aviation—such as a transoceanic flight—and ask, "Now what on earth is the practical value of that stunt?" And, more often than not, the question has been hard to answer.

The flight of the Graf Zeppelin, however, is different.

Dispatches from the Goodyear Zeppelin factory at Akron, O., indicate that the dirigible makers there are all ready to build giant passenger dirigibles for ocean service. Regular routes are planned, to reach from California to Hawaii and from the Atlantic coast to Europe. All that remains unsettled is the financing.

But the financiers were cautious. They weren't quite sure about the big dirigibles. So they waited to watch the Graf Zeppelin fly around the world. The Akron men believe that this flight will remove the last obstacle, and will make regular commercial ocean flying service a reality.

The airship station at Barlow, England, is to be used as a site for one of the largest rayon factories in the world.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Molly smiled wanly.

"Hello, Sweetheart," she whispered. "Guess my little dinner party's off."

Her shoulder was bandaged, and one arm was in a sling. Even her head was swathed.

"It's nothing, really," she assured Jack. "Just a lot of fancy scenery. The nurse says there are a dozen photographers out there waiting to take my picture. I guess they bribed the doctors to make me picturesque."

"But your head!" stammered Jack. "They told me it was only your shoulder."

"I cut it when I fell," she explained. "They took a few stitches, and tied it up for general effectiveness. I'm all right."

"You said it!" he pronounced huskily. "You're the all rightest game kid that ever lived. You sent for me, didn't you, Molly?"

"Yes. The nurse said you were out there with a girl and a lot of men. She heard you talking to the doctor. Is Rita there, too? And Bob and Zip?"

He nodded. "There's a regular convention. All the reporters in the city, I guess. Why I asked if you sent for me was because that Red Flynn's out there, too. Maybe you'd reather see him, Molly?"

"Oh, Red!" She sighed petulantly. "Be Your size!"

"He says this shooting is worth a million dollars worth of advertising for you. You knew the dope fiend that shot you killed himself, didn't you. I suppose they'll make a great blood and thunder story out of it."

She smiled palely. "Yes, I had a note from Red. Miss Gowan read it to me. He wants to be my manager."

"Your manager "

"Yes, Red's a born news hound. He's tickled to death about the whole thing. Just so long as I didn't die, he thinks it's a great break. He used to be a press agent, honey."

Miss McGowan came rustling back. Stiff in starchy white.

"You mustn't tire my patient," she admonished playfully.

Molly caught Jack's hand, and drew him closer.

"Forget Red, Old Foolish," she instructed. "He's nothing in my life but a police court reporter."

As he was leaving the room, she called after him. "You'll stay over tonight, won't you, Jack? And come to see me tomorrow? And tell the others I can see them tomorrow, too—Rita and Bob, I mean—and Zip."

"How about Red Flynn?" he asked.

"Oh, you couldn't keep Red out," she declared. "He'll be running in with a battery of photographers, and my life story all typed, and ready for my signature. You don't know Red. By the way, if this story's going to get wired all over the place, you'd better send mother and dad a telegram. Tell them it's all dreadfully exaggerated, and that I'm absolutely all right."

"I'll tell them to come and take you home, where you belong," he threatened.

"If you do," she warned, "I'll have a relapse."

In the morning Jack went shopping. He sent to the hospital lounging pajamas and American beauty roses that matched the satin of the pajamas.

Shortly afterward he wired his office for a week's salary in advance, explaining that a friend was ill, and that he must remain away for a few days.

Red, visiting the hospital that afternoon, admired the pajamas, and smelled the roses.

"The only time a girl gets stuff like that," he observed, "is before she gets married. Watch your step, dearie."

"I've told you a hundred times, Red, that I wouldn't get married until I'd gotten somewhere. What makes you think I want to cramp my style?"

"Love messes up a lot of things," he remarked. "I got faith in you, that's all, Molly."

"Your faith's touching, Red. Well, you needn't worry. I'm going to convalesce plenty. And, while I'm doing that little thing, we'll tear off the Great American Play."

"Atta girl!" he approved. "You've a vacation coming to you, and don't you forget it. If Wharton hadn't ordered that law and order spiel, you'd never been popped off."

Molly's eyes were sparkling with excitement. "You know, Red, I've been thinking it would be a good idea to work Dopey Dan into the play. I don't know just how. Only we ought to get in a gunman murder, don't you think?"

"Now you're talking!" approved Red boisterously. "And I'll tell you what I did today. I sent out a story to the effect that you were incorporating your own life story in a play to be produced on Broadway next season. Just a little feeler. Might interest some of those birds that buy plays. Can't do any harm, and something might come of it."

Red was right. Partly right, at least. For something did come of it.

It came in the form of a letter from Mrs. Burnham.

"Dear Daughter," she wrote. "Hardly had our anxiety over your condition abated, when another shock was forced upon us. Today's paper announces that you are planning to write a crime play, in which you will include 'lurid highmarks of your own career.' My dear child, that would be more than your father and I could bear. Write, I beg of you, and set our fears at rest. The papers have carried such dreadful stories. It is hard to know what to believe. Mr. Wells has been so kind. He has kept us constantly informed of your condition. You have written of him in such a way that your father and I had come to regard him as a struggling young man, with a meager income. His telegrams and long distance telephone calls indicate, however, considerable affluence. I hope, my dear, if Mr. Wells is the fine young man he seems to be, you will not let this ridiculous career of yours stand in the way of a happy marriage. . ."

Molly wired her distracted parents flippantly, inviting them to the premiere of her play, and assuring them that it would make their hair stand on end. Then she sent for Jack.

"See here," she accused him, "how come you're telephoning my family? Don't you know transcontinental conversations are a little luxury reserved for millionaires?"

"It didn't cost much," he affirmed. "The poor things were worried stiff."

"And you've been wiring them," she continued sternly.

"That's nothing. Gee whiz, Molly."

"Jack, you're incorrigible." Her voice now was very gentle. "I love you fearfully."

He sat on the side of the bed, and crushed her hands in his.

"And I haven't a cent," he cried bitterly.

"I love you," she whispered.

"That's your tough luck," he retorted with bitter humor. "Listen, Molly, I've been thinking things over. I want to free you from our engagement."

"Jack!"

"I do," he insisted stubbornly. "Let's talk it over sensibly."

"Don't you love me any more?"

"Love you!" he groaned.

The smile fled from her lips. "What's wrong, dear?"

"Nothing. Not a darn thing. Except I've got to be fair to you. Don't you see, Molly? Don't make it any harder, dear."

He had walked to the window now, and was tugging on the curtain cord. His face was as white as her bandages.

"You've a career a head of you," he told her doggedly. "You want to write—and God knows you can write, Molly. Why, honey-girl, you can write all around lots of these women that get their stuff published all over the place! Women with big names, I mean. You're better than any of them.

"I wish to heaven," he broke off suddenly, "that you'd get this crime bug out of your head. You can write such darn pretty things. Love stories, I mean. Sweet, romantic stuff. Gee, you can't tell me that doesn't sell, Molly."

"Big names can sell anything," she told him patiently. "But anybody can sell crime that can write it pretty well."

"Well, anyhow." He attacked the subject again determinedly. "The point is, you want to write, and here's your big chance. I was talking with your friend Red Flynn yesterday. He says he has a producer interested. He says you can cash in like a million on all the publicity of the Mandinello trial, and he knows what he's talking about. He's talked it over with a lot of big guns. He says you'll go over with a bang. Well, once you find yourself where you want to be, dear—a playwright, and all that—that's going to be something different. You understand, don't you?"

"No," she said in a scared little voice. "I'm afraid I don't."

"All right then. I'll make it clearer. If you're going to make a lot of money, and grab a lot of fame—good gosh, Molly, you don't want to be tied down to a nogood son-of-a-gun."

"You want to break our engagement, Jack?" she asked quietly. "You really want to?"

"Yes," he insisted stubbornly, "I do. It's for your own good, Molly. It's because I love you so much. I'm going away. Somewhere so far that I can't pester you any more. I'm going to yeave you free, Sweetheart, to have a career."

"If that's the price, Jack, I'll give up the career."

"No," he said. "You can't. It's there—that talent—right inside you. You can't cut it out any more than you can amputate your heart."

"Oh, yes, I can."

"Well, I won't let you. It would come between us after a while. You know what Longfellow had to say—'Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these—it might have been.' I guess it's the truth. You'd always be thinking of what might have been, if you hadn't married me."

"But we could get married," she cried. "You could be an architect, and I could write." She tried to laugh. "And we could have a lot of little authors, who'd illustrate their own stories. You know—they'd take after us both."

"And you drawing down maybe a thousand a week," he cut in, and me $50. Do you think I could stand that?"

"If you love me—yes."

"If I loved you?" he laughed harshly. "That's not the question. If you kept on loving me, you mean. And you couldn't do it, Molly. No woman could. A woman hasn't any respect for a man that can't take care of her. . . ."

"Now what have you been saying to excite my patient, Mr. Wells?" she demanded.

She sent him away, and followed him into the hall to whisper:

"Her temperature's 102!"

LYRICS OF LIFE

A WORLD OF FRIENDS.

I have a friend who has a friend, another friend of his,
For that's the way it is with friends—how wonderful it is!
If I should meet that other man I'd pass without a sign,
Although, if he's a friend of his, then he's a friend of mine.

I'm sure of this, I shouldn't hate, I mustn't if I can,
For he may be a friend of friends of mine, that other man.
I cannot hurt another man, I cannot make him fall,
For I may hurt some friend of mine I'd hate to hurt at all.

Yes, even if we aren't friends, the strangers on the street,
They may be friends of friends of mine, although we never meet.
I guess they all are friends of ours, the way that God intends—
Although we push, although we crowd, we're just a world of friends.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT

An unusual feature of the great night club setting in Warner Bros. latest talking, singing Vitaphone production, "Honky Tonk," which introduces the famous Sophie Tucker as a film star and comes today to the Delft Theatre, is an ascending stage on which the magnetic singer makes her entry to the floor of the cabaret.

Throngs of merrymakers dance—a bevy of choristers trip down the runways—others put on a dancing act—then from the far end of the club floor, rises a stage—bearing not only the astonishing Sophie Tucker but her accompanist, Ted Shapiro, seated at a grand piano.

Some of Sophie's songs are given from this platform, and for others she steps down into the middle of the floor, going back at the completion of the number and disappearing as the stage returns to its former level.

This stage is moved by hydraulic power, and is one of the most finished examples of stagecraft.

"Honky Tonk" was directed by Lloyd Bacon, and Miss Tucker's supporting cast includes George Duryea, Lila Lee, Audrey Ferris, Mahlon Hamilton and John T. Murray. Leslie S. Barrows did the original story, C. Graham Baker, the adaptation.

AT THE STRAND

Distinctly different from any photoplay previously released, "The Faker," a Columbia production, scored an instantaneous hit with the audience at the Strand Theatre, where it is being shown.

Jacqueline Logan has a role of unusual interest. She delineates the faker's assistant, whose charming personality and magnetism is the open sesame to the most exclusive circles. While engaged in gathering data to be used at future seances the girl meets and falls in love with an attractive youth. A visit from the police is responsible for the arrest and the faker leaving town suddenly. She has no chance to bid the boy farewell.

Months later the girl is engaged as secretary to the boy's step-father to gather information for the faker, who is engaged by the outcast son to influence the father in turning against the stepson.

Charles E. Delaney portrays the stepson and Gaston Glass the outcast. Warner Oland gives a masterly performance as the charlatan. Charles Hill Mailes is the father, Flora Fiach and David Mir present what little humor there is in the production as believers in the faker's phenomena. When they discover that they have been duped they start something which is funny to all except the charlatan.

BANKERS MEET HERE IN 1930

Upper Peninsula Financiers Discuss Money Problems

Escanaba was chosen as the 1930 convention city of the Michigan Bankers Association Group One at the annual meeting held in Sault Ste. Marie Saturday when Wesley A. Clarke, vice president and cashier of the Central Savings Bank at the Soo was chosen chairman. Henry J. Veeser, cashier of the First National Bank, Iron River, was re-elected secretary and treasurer.

E. J. Noreus, cashier of the First National Bank, Gladstone, was chosen member of the executive committee from Delta county.

Those who attended the meeting from Escanaba are: William Warmington, State Savings Bank; W. J. Schmidt, Escanaba National Bank; and Herbert J. Rushton.

Members of the executive committee for next year are: Alger county, H. McMillan, cashier of the People's bank, Munising; Keweenaw county, Alfred Messner, cashier of the Keweenaw Savings bank, Mohawk; Houghton county, R. E. Odgers, cashier of the First National bank, Hubbell; Baraga county, Thomas D. Tracey, president of the Baraga County National bank, L'Anse; Ontonagon county, Percy E. Saxton, cashier of the Trout Creek State bank, Trout Creek; Marquette county, R. J. Jeffrey, cashier of the Gwinn State bank, Gwinn; Dickinson county, Leo Mortenson, cashier of the First National bank, Iron Mountain; Menominee county, Howard E. Nadeau, cashier of the Commercial bank, Menominee; Schoolcraft county, Walter C. Drevdahl, cashier of the First National bank, Manistique; Luce county, Frank P. Bohn, president of the Newberry State bank, Newberry; Mackinac county, H. T. Hotchkiss, vice president of the First National bank, St. Ignace; Delta county, E. J. Noreus; Iron county, Otto G. Groeschel, Commercial bank, Stambaugh; Gogebic county, Victor Lepisto, cashier of the First National bank, Wagefield; Chippewa county, H. E. Fletcher, cashier of the Soo Savings bank.

Before a group of fifty bankers of the upper peninsula, R. P. Hudson, speaking for the local bankers and the citizens of the Sault Ste. Marie, made the speech of welcome.

C. H. Moss, cashier, Miner's National Bank, Ishpeming in his acceptance address stated that he as well as the other delegates were happy to be in the Sault and were receiving the fine hospitality which always marks the visit of guests to his city.

Scott Lamb, vice-president of the Fidelity Trust Company, Detroit, addressed the body on "Bank Taxation."

Kenneth B. Burns, newly installed field secretary of the Michigan Bankers Association, was introduced to the delegates. Mr. Burns is actively interested in the banking problems of the upper peninsula as during the past years the banks of this portion of the state have complained of not being able to keep in as close touch with the central organization as is desirable.

After a discussion of the service charge on small accounts, plans were divulged for a boat trip down the Sault river on Coast Guard cutters, and the convention was adjourned to the luncheon served at 1:30 at the Hotel Ojibway. During the luncheon, John A. Reynolds, vice president of the Union Trust Company, Detroit, gave a talk on "Wills, Estates and Trusts."

Fred S. Case will act as toastmaster at the banquet at the Country Club at 6:30, at which time Francis T. McDonald, local attorney, will give an address on "Chain Banking and Concentration of Banking Authority." After the address there will be music and dancing.

AUTO THIEVES CONTINUE WORK

Steal Clothing From One Car; Break Handles of Seven

Continuing their depredations in this city, a gang of itinerant auto thieves succeeded in breaking into an automobile owned by S. S. Swift, of South Haven, which was parked in front of the Ludington hotel Sunday night, and stealing a suit of clothes, cap, shirt, typewriter, and traveling bag.

The handles of six other automobiles were broken off but the thieves were unable to open the doors.

Eight boxes of sample shoes valued at $600 which were stolen Thursday night from a car owned by E. G. Harryman, of St. Louis, were recovered near Fishery hill Sunday afternoon when they were found dumped in the woods near the road by two little girls who notified police.

Police have no clues concerning the identity of the robbers, but vigilance is being tightened to prevent further thefts.

Meanwhile John J. Tolan, chief of police, has announced that individuals who park their cars on the street during the night should remove all valuables.

That the thefts are being made by a traveling gang of marauders is indicated by the fact that similar burglaries were reported recently in Marquette, Sault Ste. Marie, and Manistique. Police at Iron Mountain and Menominee have been notified to watch for the burglars.

In this case we want to let Mr. Leo Benotch, 300 Taylor St., Kaukauna, Wisc., tell you in his own words just what "Dreco" did for him. He said:

"I was afraid to eat a square meal for fear of indigestion and gas attacks that would cause a pressure around my heart that would make me short of breath. Rheumatism had settled in my legs and across my back. Every muscle and joint in my body would ache me when I went to bed at night, sleep was impossible before I took a treatment of this new Dreco tonic. I had only taken Dreco for four weeks when all the pain and aches left me, now I am free from constipation, and will always be a firm booster for Dreco."

HEALTH

CEREALS, RICH IN CARBOHYDRATES, ESSENTIAL TO GOOD DIET

The cereals constitute the main portions of the diets of most of the people in the world. They are unusually digestible, although certain heavy breads such as pumpernickel, are digested with difficulty and portions will come through the body without change.

Rice is one of the cereals which constitutes a tremendous portion of the diets of human beings. A certain disease known as beriberi is due to the fact that the rice has been polished and this form of preparation removes the portion containing the vitamin B. There are various forms of nervous and digestive disorders which are associated with an absence of vitamin B from the diet.

Most of the cereals are rich in carbohydrates. For example, three tablespoonfuls of farina, weighing about 27 grams, will contain three grams of protein, one-half gram fat and 21 grams of carbohydrates. Grapenuts, puffed wheat, puffed rice, shredded wheat and wheatina all have about the same composition. Three tablespoonfuls of any of these cereals will provide 100 calories to the body, a very small amount of phosphorus, little if any iron, and, in the case of the whole wheat products, some calcium.

All of them will provide vitamins A and B, except that the polished rice products contain relatively little of any of these vitamins. Thus, the cereals are energy producers and weight builders, as are all foods rich in carbohydrates. The diet of the growing child should be relatively rich in cereals for the same reason.

The development of the prepared breakfast foods has done much to add variety to the cereal diet. By this means, flavor, palatability and other ingredients may be supplemented and increased. It must be remembered also that the cereals are usually supplemented with milk, cream and sugar and that these serve to add to their food value.

The proteins of the cereal foods are not sufficient to serve alone as body builders for most people, and are best supplemented with proteins from meat and milk products. The muscle meats do not provide much more in the way of dietary properties than do the cereals and must be supplemented with calcium, sodium and with the various vitamins. Such supplementation comes from such meats as liver, kidney and giblets, generally also from milk products.

Observe O'Connell Centennial at Fete

The O'Connell centennial commemoration was held, by Delta Division No. 1, A. O. H., of Escanaba, at a banquet in the Ludington hotel Sunday. Song and music were enjoyed under the lead of Johnson's orchestra.

The initiation ceremonies at St. Patrick's Hall, where fifty candidates were received, were attended by a large number of members and following the ceremonies, a program of song and music was rendered.

The feature of the occasion was the intellectual treat given by Capt. Clark, of the Cleveland police department. The sudden death of his brother prevented State President, Jas. McKenna from being present. State Vice President, John A. Fisher, whose efforts were mainly responsible for the success of the event.

This centennial year will witness several more such events and the first one will probably be repeated in a few weeks when another large class will be initiated.

Heavy rains did much damage to crops in Ecuador during the last season.

GLADSTONE NEWS.

CHIEF LOCATES BOY BURGLARS

Nine-Year Old Youngsters Rifle Register; Have Loaded Gun

Two nine-year-old Gladstone boys, who entered Peterson's Flower Shoppe, Delta avenue, during the supper hour Saturday, and took $79.50 from the cash register, were apprehended Sunday morning by Chief of Police Torval Kallerson.

Fifty-three dollars of the money taken was recovered at once and a search is being made for the remaining $26.50, which, it is believed, the boys have hidden away, or else lost in their scramble getting out of the building before they were detected.

The burglary took place during the supper hour.

Miss Bernice Barber, manager of the shop, locked it at 6 o'clock to go to her home, and returned at 6:50 o'clock to discover the theft.

The boys entered the building through a back basement window, which they kicked in, going from the basement to the shop through a trap door in the floor. They opened the register by ringing up five cents.

They spent a small amount, all in change, Saturday evening for candy and "hot dogs," but spent none of the bills, and for this reason, it is believed that practically the entire amount will be recovered.

Stolen Revolver

When taken in to custody by Chief Kallerson Sunday morning, the boys were found to have in their possession a loaded 32 caliber revolver, which they admitted taking along with them on their thieving expedition.

The gun, they said, was taken from a car parked near the Rialto building about two weeks ago. It is not registered in Gladstone, it was learned, upon a check-up of the records here.

The youngsters also had a number of car keys and flash lights which they took from cars Saturday afternoon.

Disposition of the case has not yet been decided. Because of the extreme youth of the two boys, it is probable that they will be released upon making payment for all funds and property taken. Otherwise they will be returned over to probate authorities.

Both boys have taken part in minor offenses of the same nature previous to this.

THEATRES

RIALTO

The remarkable sound synchronization, which startled the thousands who saw "Wings" at the Criterion theatre, New York City, the Carlton theatre in London and at other great theatres in the large cities of the world, where 'Wings" played long runs to delighted audiences, will be heard when the Paramount epic of the "Aces" in the World War shows at the Rialto theatre for 2 days, starting today.

The master synchronization, which at the time of its introduction was the first sound innovation, furnishes a splendid accompaniment for the wonders o fthe picture. Musical accompaniment of heart-stirring beauty forms the background for realistic sound effects. The spirit of the music is carefully tempered to keep pace with the changing tempo of the picture.

The sound effects elicited a wealth of praise from newspaper critics wherever the picture was played. The care which Director William A. Wellman exercised in the production, made of "Wings" a thrilling story of war and air. The sound effects added to these realistic and realistically photographed pictures the convincing ear accompaniment.

Falling airplanes really fall in "Wings" in picture and sound. Machine guns blaze away and those who see them can also hear them. A band marches by and the music swells from the screen. The tramp of a thousand feet is measured in the regulated response from the sound reproducers.

"Wings" is a great moving picture but, with sound, it is a marvelous piece of realism that records for all time the war as it was fought in the air in 1917 and 1918.

STOMACH TROUBLE?

"DIASTATIC DEFICIENCY" AND "TOO MUCH ACID" CAUSE 9 OUT OF EVERY 10 ATTACKS

"DIASTATIC DEFICIENCY" (failure to digest starches), causes more than one-half the cases of stomach trouble. Because of this deficiency, potatoes, breads, macaroni, rice, breakfast cereals and other starchy foods remain in a semi-solid condition and refuse to move on as they should. This stoppage causes INDIGESTION, GAS, FERMENTATION, SOURNESS, SICK HEADACHE and other common troubles.

"TOO MUCH ACID" is the cause of almost all the remaining half of our stomach troubles. It also is the result of fermentation and excess digestive acids.

ACIDINE, the new discovery, is a perfect anti-acid combined with "Japtase," the most effective known starch digestant, one pound of which will digest more than 800 pounds of starchy foods.

ACIDINE is the FIRST COMPLETE REMEDY for STOMACH TROUBLE—an ANTI-ACID, STARCH DIGESTANT, MEAT DIGESTANT. At the same time it is safe and soothing to the most sensitive stomach. Slightly laxative but not unpleasantly so.

BELIEVE THEFT RING BROKEN

Wrights Arrested for Cigarette Thefts; Confessions Secured

With the arrest of Byron Wright, 20, of Manistique, and his cousin, Myril Wright, 23, of the Soo, Sheriff J. M. Hewitt was certain yesterday that he had broken up the cigarette theft ring which had looted the Hewitt Grocery Co. in this city of over $1000 worth of goods and operated on a wholesale in other parts of the peninsula. A large quantity of the stolen cigarettes were recovered.

The two Wrights were picked up the Soo by Chief of Police White of that city, after Sheriff Hewitt and Sgt. Fred Keune of the state police had been following up clues for nearly a week. Sheriff Hewitt went to the Soo, secured a written confession from each of the men, brought them back to the Schoolcraft county jail ,where they will await trial. They were bound over to circuit court.

The Hewitt Co. wholesale warehouse in Manistique was robbed twice, once on August 27 and again September 2. Authorities first directed suspicion at the two Wrights when a salesman of the Hewett Co., Edgar Wood, learned of local dealers buying cigarettes at less than the cost price.

In the investigation which followed, it was learned that the salesman here had represented Mr. Spielmacher of Cooks as the owner of the smokes. They represented him to be selling out, giving this as the reason for the cut price on the cigarettes.

The officers found further that cigarettes had been stolen at the Soo from the C. W. Tapert Specialty Co., and sold to dealers here, among them being Henry Jahn, Fred Kerridge, and Parker's Resort. Cigarettes stolen from the Manistique warehouse had been disposed of at Rexton, St. Ignace and other eastern points.

The Wrights had but little money when arrested, and it was reported that they had spent the proceeds of their hauls in the Canadian Soo. Both are married men. They were believed to have some of the smokes hidden in the woods not far from Manistique, and a search was to be made for these Monday.

GERO - TODAY

THEY TAKE THE AIR AT THE COUNTY FAIR

THE SAVILLA BROTHERS.

In offering the great Savilla trio as one of the attractions on the day and nights programs at the Schoolcraft county fair Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, the management feel that a "ten-strike" has been made. The Savilla brothers have made show business their life's work. In superior gymnastic exhibitions they are to the manner born. Many severe critics have said that these smooth muscled boys start where most gymnasts finish.

Three entirely seperate acts, all distincly different, are presented on the Schoolcraft county fair programs at Manistique. First, a remarkable teeter-board exhibition. The illustration above depicts briefly the routines of this feature of the company's act. The second number gives the men a chance to show their versatility, and they surely take advantage of it in one of the snappiest laugh-provokers that ever tickled the ribs of any audience.

As a third offering, Frank Savilla promotes a gush of extra heart-beats as he performs on a slender wire. A number of the especially difficult feats, such as performing on the wire blindfolded and the "giant swing" and also illustrated on the accompanying picture.

Don't Wait 'til Thursday; Attend Early, Avoid Rush

Here's a suggestion for those who are planning to attend the Schoolcraft county fair.

Heretofore the county fair has had one crowded day, on Thursday. It is suggested that patrons of the fair, who can, arrange to attend on the opening day, Wednesday, and thus avoid some of the discomforts attendant with a large crowd. Each day's program is identical in character. All exhibits will be in place on Wednesday morning at the opening of the fair.

Information Booth Will Close Sunday

As the result of the many complimentary things said by tourists who come to him for information, Frank Wharfield of the Manistique information bureau was inspired to compose a poem the other day, and here's what he wrote:

"Manistique — that good old town—
Where tourists never see a frown;
They meet you with an open hand
And welcome you to Cloverland."

The information booth, scheduled to close September 1, has been open this week but will probably close Sunday.

AT GERO TODAY

Rising to a tremendous climax that will make most fans gasp, "The Flying Fool," Pathe's air drama starring William Boyd, is said to be one of the most thrilling and entertaining pictures produced ths season. Although the story has an aviation background and though it reaches great dramatic cresendo with a scene in the air it is not entirely an air story. It is a human drama, which combines pathos and comedy, played by a cast of capable actors and moulded into fine entertainment.

In his role of the Flying Fool, Mr. Boyd is seen as a devil-may-care stunt flyer whose weakness is women. They have been his chief diversion since the days in France when he was an American ace, but he has never fallen in love. His motto is "find 'em, fool 'em and forget 'em!" This he proceeds to do with amazing success until he decides to "save" his brother from what he believes is a designing cabaret singer. It is at this point that complications, set in and Bill finds that for once he is not master of the situation. The climax of the story is tremendous and must be seen to be appreciated.

Boyd is said to be excellent as the heart-breaking dare-devil. Marie Prevost is a captivating and convincing as ever as the cabaret girl, a type of role that suits her personality perfectly.

Tom O'Brien, playing a blustering, bullying aviator who gets licked plenty for his trouble, demonstrates that he is master of this type of role. Russell Gleason has a fine character part. Others in the cast of "The Flying Fool" which comes to the Gero theatre today are Dan Wolheim, Kate Bruce and Dorothy Ward. Tay Garnett directed.

During a recent drought in Medsted, England, water was sold at three cents a bucket.

Night Programs Feature of Fair

Night programs, with a full line-up of free acts and band music, and all exhibits thrown open to the public, will be a feature of the 18th annual Schoolcraft county fair this year.

The evening entertainment will be presented Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights, and the admisison will be at the reduced price of 25 cents.

Night fairs are not new to Manistique, but last season the exhibits were closed for the evenings, and thus prevented many day workers from seeing the entire exposition, causing disappointment to a large number who were unable to attend during the day. Everything will be open this year, and the night program will have everything that the day fair offers, with the exception of the horse races.

Lieds' Display Will Attract Housewives

Housewives will be especially interested in the demonstration booth at Lieds, Inc., of Manistique, which will occupy a large space in the main display hall at the county fair this week. The company is local agent for Washburn Crosby products, and the famous flour line will be demonstrated for fair visitors. Cake and pancake flour are two of the specialties which will be used by th expert in charge of the booth.

Sportsmen To Hold Meeting this Evening

Making preparations for their big shoot Sunday, September 15, the Manistique Gun Club will hold a meeting at the Dupont barber shop tonight at 8 o'clock.

The Soo and Escanaba are to send a big delegation to this event, and it is expected to prove the most interesting trap meeting of the season.

BRITHDAY PARTY

Complimenting Mrs. Sanford Stone of her borthday anniversary, 17 ladies gathered for a surprise party at her home on Park avenue last week. There were three tables of 500, and high honors were won by Mrs. Cournava. Mrs. Hansen was second. Refreshment were served to complete the evening's program of entertainment.

CITY MANAGER GIVES TALK

High Cost of Government Discussed at Rotary Meeting

"The High Cost of Municipal Government" was the topic of an interesting talk given before the Gladstone Rotary club Monday noon by City Manager F. R. Buechner.

"Because of the economic relation of taxation to general prosperity, the "High Cost of Government" is of common interest, the city manager said in his introduction. "The subject itself, of course, is full of dynamite, but I will endeavor to avoid local problems and will allude to general tendencies.

"Eternal vigilgence is the Price of Liberty," is a quotation that cannotes the idea of liberty and equality of treatment.

"Popular governments were first instituted to prevent the abuse of authority and those governments were sufficient for the simple needs of the Colonial era which saw their institution. During that period the country was a nation of rural people and there were few and small manufacturing towns, with few cities of over 30,000 population. The needs of the country were simple and the functions of government, of course, few and simple. There was no educational system, public school system; there was no public helath departments since there was no congestion and no fear of epidemics and since medical science had not advanced to the extent it has today in dealing with communicable diseases; there were no public charities, churches and individuals taking care of this; there was no sanitation, no sewers or disposal plants, only open ditches; public safety work was meagre with its volunteer bucket brigade as fire protection and its vigilantes and night watchmen in place of police; and there were no public works, or improved roads, since there were no motor vehicles and signals, no gas or electric plants and no public carriers. Even cemetery service was in the hands of churches.

"This made organization of government simple and there was little need of trained personnel.

"The popular theory of the times ,that 'Government was a necessary evil,' 'That government is best which governs least,' also had their influence.

"All of this, however," the -ac speaker continued, has been transformed by the Industrial Era and Urban Life, requiring an expansion of the sphere of government to meet needs.

"We must now add to the idea of liberty, the attribute or service. Standards of living are these had created a demand for better and more services and improvements.

"We are a progressive people and a 'horse and buggy government will not suffice in an airplane age.'

Significance of New Government

"And what is the real significance of the ned order? It presents a composite problem of reconciling the demand for better and more service with and unbearable tax burden. This is the dilemma of all public administrators. This constant expansion of services largely explains the upward trend of municipal expenditures. Therefore no reduction of the total cost would be possible only under static conditions through reducing unit costs alone.

"All of this puts a higher premium on constructive economy and cooperation than ever before.

"In spite of the changed condition," the city manager continued, "most cities can be proud of economy they have exercised, especially since the war. Expenditures are not really rising inordinately. Critics of the high cost or government overlook significant facts, among them the higher standards of community life, the decreased purchasing power of the dollar; the higher average wage since the World War; and the income in many cities, which is fixed or decreasing.

"These same critics contrast the reduced federal debt with the mounting city and state government, since these debts are not comparable. Irving Fisher, professor economics at Yale university, tells us that 83 cents out of every dollar of the federal revenue goes for war pursuits, past, cents of every tax dollar debt that is for utilities, disposal plants, highways, libraries, art museums and the like.

"Are cities extravagant then, for going into debt for these improvements?

Cities Not Extravagant

"Proof that they are not is furnished by an expert, C. E. Righter, chief statistician of the Detroit Bureau of Government, who points out that municipal bonds have kept price position next to federal government bonds with a higher price than any other form of security. The Northern Trust company of Chicago points out that the wealth of the people has shown greater increases porportionately that municipal expenditures.

"Undoubtedly borrowing certainly justified for unusual and necessary improvements where a pay-as-you-go policy cannot be followed and where current taxation insufficient to meet all this expansion.

"After all, the evil is not necessarily in the borrowing but rather in the method of borrowing. There are some exceptions like New York where the borrowing is up to 40 per cent of its assessed valuation. In most communities, however, the limit is ten percent and in our community of Gladstone, the limit is less than three per cent.

Evils in Methods of Borrowing

"The evil in the methods of borrowing is found in bonds issued beyond the reasonable life of the improvement; in lack of systematic retirement of the debt through serial bonds, which type gives cities a certain proportion to be paid each year and makes it less likely that the city will borrow beyond its means; and in the costly sinking fund method which is common and which is dangerous because of transfers of money, miscalculations or requirements and poor investment of funds.

"The real income increased by sound borrowing improvements, too, is not always apparent.

"It is a stimulus to business, and increases employment and prosperity. There are economic gains from highways, transportation facilities and educational institutions, libraries and the like and also water and power additions.

"Aside from these economic gains there are more comforts, more pleasure and better living conditions which are indeed certain compensating features.

Conclusion

"In conclusion may I re-affirm that the upward trend of municipal expenditures in the broad sense some practical redeeming features and does not necesarily mean an unhealthy condition."

FINANCIAL STOCKS BONDS PAGE

MART BEGINS WEEK FEEBLY

Stocks Apparently Weakened by Sharp Recovery After Break

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES
(By The Associated Press)

	50 Industrial	20 Railroads	20 Utilities
Today	250.7	164.5	336.2
Saturday	262.8	165.8	338.2
Week ago	Holiday
Year ago	177.7	123.4	162.2
High 1929	252.8	167.8	340.4
Low 1929	201.7	128.6	193.1

Total sales 4,860,010 shares.

New York, Sept. 9 (AP)—The stock market began the new week rather feebly today, apparently weakened by the vigorous recovery from last Thursday's sharp break. The market skidded about dizzily until the last hour, when it regained some of its poise, as bull forces rallied and drove shorts to cover by a sharp runup in a few issues. Losses of 5 to 12 points in several leading stocks were practically cut in half, but closing quotations were for the most part emphatically lower.

There was practically nothing in the news of the day or of the week end to account for the dumping overboard of stocks, but many traders had grown rather nervous over the security of the market's position after the sharp rally late last week, and taking advantage of the prevalent uneasiness, bears were able to send prices rapidly lower. The pace of trading showed but moderate recession from the fast gait set last week, the day's turnover exceeding 4,860,000 shares.

Call money renewed at 8 per cent and held there all day, as there was some calling of loans, presumably by banks to pay off federal reserve borrowings. This was in line with expectations, as Friday's drop from 9 to 6 per cent was regarded as due to temporary conditions.

Credit Outlook Fair

Bankers do not look for any marked tightening of credit as a result of the midmonth income tax payments and treasury refinancing until late next week. It is expected that funds will accumulate here in preparation for this shifting of balances, and this may ease the situation momentarily.

A drop in the rail shares was rather disappointing, as Wall Street has generally regarded this group as among the least exploited. Atchison tumbled more than 12 points, but cut down its loss to about 5 as President Storey made a rather optimistic estimate as to the results of operations during the second half.

Aviation shares were depressed by news of the Transcontinental Air Transport plane disaster in New Mexico. Curtiss-Wright sagged to 25, a new low since its listing on this market, and United Aircraft lost a few points.

Cotton Soars

Cotton was a feature of the commodities, jumping about $3 a bale on the smaller-than-expected government crop estimate, but about two-thirds of the gain was lost in selling on bearish weather. Wheat and corn moved in narrow ranges. Wheat was fairly steady on improved flour demand and firm northwest markets, but corn closed ½ to nearly 1 cent lower on beneficial rains.

Foreign exchanges were generally under pressure, Sterling Cables sagging to $4.84 11-16, to equal its previous low for the year. The Japanese Yen dropped 1-5 of a cent to 46.65 cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Sept. 9—Piling up of United States wheat visible supplies did much to bring about a tendency to sag in the wheat market today. Would-be speculative sellers proved wary, however, pending the United States government crop report tomorrow. Accordingly, although wheat averaged lower in price for the day as a whole, rallies were numerous, especially toward the last.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous at the same as yesterday's finish to 3-4c down. Corn finished ¼ at 7-8c off, oats at 1-8c decline to ½c advance, and provisions varying from 10c setback to a rise of 8c.

Not only did the United States wheat visible supply today show 2,068,000 bushels increase for the week, but there was also a decided enlargement of the amount of wheat on ocean passage, and arrivals of new wheat at Winnipeg were on a liberal scale.

Beneficial rains in the central west eased the corn market down. Oats were relatively firm, owing largely to prospective demand for Canada.

Provisions went lower, sympathizing with declines in the value of hogs.

Total bond sales (par value) $7,968,000.

New York, Sept. 9 (AP)—Mixed tendencies were apparent in another light session of the bond market today. The favorable reception accorded the September 15 issue of treasury certificates bearing 4 7-8 per cent interest was a factor in developing a better undertone, especially in the listed government securities, which showed moderate improvement, but the trend of the general list was still easy.

The treasury announced that subscriptions to the new issue must be in by the close of business today and a good demand was reported not only from banks but from individual investors. A heavy oversubscription was expected on the tax exempt nine-month obligations, orders for which were placed through the federal reserve banks.

Some dealers saw in the inquiry for the notes indications that a better public sentiment toward bonds was in prospect. They also read with interest the announcement that the state of New York would offer $28,000,000 in eight-month 4 per cent notes in anticipation of a long term bond issue early next year, and that an oversubscription by state banks was assured. Banks taking up the issue are to receive consideration in the placing of state deposits. It was apparent that the comptroller believed a bond issue carrying a low coupon would meet with scant attention at this time, but that the state's financial experts believed conditions would be more favorable for a bond issue in a few months.

Convertibles Slide

Convertibles sold in lower ground throughout most of the day in response to the weakness of stocks, although the close was a point or two above the lowest quotations of the session. International Telephone 4½s made a maximum dip of about 6 points, finishing at 212 1-8 for a net decline of 3 7-8. American Telephone 4½s lost 2 3-4 and Atchison 4½s were off 2. Tennessee Copper & Chemical 6s proved an exception in the convertible group, gaining 5 7-8.

Industrials and utilities were mixed, with price changes slightly favoring the upside.

Foreign bonds ruled dull, but irregularly higher.

New York, Sept. 9 (AP)—The net operating income of the American Telephone & Telegraph company for July amounted to $2,878,183, compared with $2,695,067 for July, 1929. For the first seven months the company's income totaled $23,192,712, as against $21,619,837 for the corresponding period last year.

Directors of the S. W. Straus Investing corporation have voted to split the company's common stock on a two-for-one basis, subject to the approval of stockholders, who will vote on the proposal at a meeting September 19.

E. W. Edwards, president of the Paragon Refining company, Wall Street heard today, is in New York conferring with officials of the Valvoline Oil company relative to acquisition of the controlling interest in Valvoline by his company. It was reported that Paragon was willing to pay $200 a share for between 25,000 and 30,000 shares of Valvoline common stock.

Several large sugar refiners, including the American, National and the Spreckels organizations, have advanced the price of refined sugar from 5.30 cents to 5.40 cents a pound, effective Wednesday.

Through a confusion of names, The Associated Press last week reported that the Art Metal Construction company, of Jamestown, N. Y., had placed its capital stock on a $3 annual dividend basis, whereas the story should have read that the increased dividend rate was made on the capital stock of the Art Metal Works, Inc., of Newark, N. J. The Associated Press takes this opportunity of correcting the error.

August sales of the country's leading chain store systems, including amil order, 5 and 10 cent, clothing, lunch, brocery, bakery, shoe and electric supply companies, totaled $188,697,082, compared with $142,591,798 for August, 1928, an increase of 32.33 per cent. Sales for the eight months aggregated $1,401,374,881, as gainst $1,093,914,070 in the corresponding period last year.

W. B. Storey, president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, said today that he thought the second half of the year will be as satisfactory for his company, or better than the second half of last year.

Gale R. Nutty, a director of the Gulf Oil Co., of Pennsylvania, has been elected president of the Gulf Refining company, a subsidiary, succeeding George S. Davison, who has resigned that position, effective October 1.

Selling Pressure Pronounced in Mart

New York, Sept. 9 (AP)Selling pressure was quite pronounced in today's curb market. Pools succeeded in marking up a few issues to new high levels, but prices generally lost ground. Uneasiness over the credit situation, fears of adverse legislation and the coming session of congress and a widespread speculative belief that a further correction of the recent top-heavy speculative position was necessary, all contributed to the bearish sentiment.

While most of the public utilities lost ground, Standard Power & light was whirled up nearly 11 points to another new high record at 181, which contrasts with the year's low of 49½.

Aviation shares were under rather steady pressure on selling inspired by the recent Transcontinental Air Transport fatalities and speculative disappointment over the sale of planes this year which has fallen well below earlier estimates.

Oils also drifted lower but with the exception of Cosden, Gulf and Humble, which lost 1½ to 3 points, the declines were held to fractions.

Investment Trust and Holding company stocks were mixed. Third National Investors and Intercoastal Trading moved into new high ground, but Electric Investors dropped 6 points and Goldman Sachs Trading and several others yielded a point or more.

Grounded Steamer Abandoned; Ship Cargo Total Loss

Vigo, Spain, Sept. 9, (AP)—The British Nelson Line Passenger Steamer Highland Pride was abandoned by Captain C. Alford and his crew late tonight. The commandante of marine here said the ship and her cargo of 3,000 tons of general merchandise together with a deckload of cattle would be a total loss.

The ship, enroute to Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro, ran ashore on Piedras Negras reef just outside the harbor early today.

The passengers with most of their baggage were landed without difficulty by the boats of the vessel.

Tugs were unable to draw the ship off.

L. S. & I. WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

Escanaba Teams "Crack" In Diamond Ball Tourney

The L. S. and I. Shopmen, champions of the Marquette Industrial league won the diamond ball championship of the upper peninsula at the first annual diamond ball tourney held here Sunday at the Chicago and Northwestern diamond. They defeated the Manistique Firemen 13 to 5 in the finals after winning 8 to 0 from the United Cigars and 6 to 4 from the Gladstone Industrials.

The two Escanaba teams entered in the tourney, the United Cigars and the Kaysees "cracked" at the meet from the effects of a hard ten week season in which they met and defeated the best teams in the city. The Stogies lost to the peninsula champs, Marquette L. S. and I., 8 to 0, being let down with a single hit by Pearson. The Kaysees bunched two walks and a double by Sullivan, their only hit in the game, to bring home two runs to take the lead in their game with the Manistique Firemen only to lose the match, 3 to 2. They won their first round match with Munising by forfeit, the Alger County team not showing up for the meet. About 1,500 people witnessed the games.

The visiting teams were loud in their praise in regards to the treatment extended to them while in this city and they indicated that they will make a special effort to attend the second annual peninsula tourney which will be held here again next year.

3 JOCKEYS WIN RIDING HONORS

Veterans Cop 12 Out of 21 Places on Lincoln Fields Card

BY ORLO L. ROBERTSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Sept. 9 (AP)—Winning twelve of the twenty-one money places, a trio of veteran jockeys just about monopolized riding honors on an ordinary card at Lincoln fields today.

J. Parmalee topped the three with two victories and four seconds on six mounts, but close behind was F. Halbert with the same number of wins. One place and a show. The third member of the trio was R. Heigle, who booted home two winners. Elmo Shropshire managed to break through of the Rancocas Stable's Khara in the fourth race to divide the winning stream of the three.

The sixth race—a claiming event for three-year olds at a mile—saw Heigle up on House Girl, the winner, Parmalee astride Lillian T., which ran second, and Halbert sending Riff Raff across the line in third positon. Pamalee started off the day wth victory on Easter Boy in the opening number. He was out of the money in the second, but then counted four straight seconds before ridings his second winner Babylon in the seventh.

Halbert, Heigle Win Two

Halbert's two triumphs came on Banset in the third race and Brown Wisdom in the feature number — the Cooper Carlton purse for three-year olds and upward at six furlongs. In addition he sent Charm straight home in second place in the second number and was up on Riff Raff in the sixth, when the trio made a clean sweep.

The two wins by Heigle were on Polita in the second race and on House Girl in the sixth. In the day's inaugural Lord Concord, making his third start, ran second to pay the handsome sum of $49.86 to place and $22.82 to show.

Stephanite from the Lenox Stud found the Belmont Park sloppy going very much to his liking so took advantage of the opportunity to account for the Mineola stakes—a gallop of six furlongs over the Widener course for puveniles. The medium of a terrific plunge that forced his price down from 8 to 1 to 4 to 1, Stephanite ran away from the field, defeating Cygent four lengths. Cygent was a half-length in front of Big Business for the place money. The victory carried a value of $3,800 to the winner.

BOXING

Baltimore, Sept. 9, (AP)—Louis (Kid) Kaplan former featherweight champion of the world, scored a technical knockout over Henri De Wancker of France in the seventh round of their scheduled 12 round bout here tonight. The fight was stopped by Referee Buck Alexander. The Frenchman's right eye was swollen and shut.

New York, Sept. 9, (AP)—The ten round bout between Georgie Levine, Brooklyn, and Floyd Hybert, Cleveland, scheduled for tonight at Dexter Park, Brooklyn, was called off until Wednesday on account of rain.

Flint, Mich., Sept. 9, (AP)—Tiger West, of Cincinnati, won a 10 round decision from Roy Williams of Chicago here tonight. West weighed 163, Williams 162.

Detroit—A one man grand jury probe into the disappearance of 60 felony files from the vault of the recorder's court will be conducted by Judge Edward J. Jeffries, it was announced Monday by Christopher E. Stein, presiding judge of the recorder's court. The majority of the missing files deal with liquor law violators whose cases are pending in the court. James E. Chenot, prosecuting attorney, has announced the files were stolen by professional "fixers" intent on obstructing justice.

PIRATES BEAT ROBINS, 9-7

Come From Behind in Seventh to Score 4 Runs and Win

Pittsburgh, Sept. 9 (AP)—Led by a recruit outfielder, James Moslof, the Pirates came from behind in the seventh inning today to score four runs and beat out the Brooklyn Robins by a 9 to 7 score.

Going into the seventh, the Pirates trailed by one run. A hit, a sacrifice and a walk set the stage and Moslof, recently arrived from Wichita, appeared as a pinch batsman. He drove in the tying run with a single and later scored to add to the lead. A wild pitch by McWeeny gave the Pirates two runs in that inning. Ervin Brame worked the whole game for Pittsburgh though hit hard while Brooklyn called on four pitchers.

Red Sox Trounce Browns, 6-2; Rain Washes Out Second

Boston, Sept. 9 (AP)—After the Red Sox had defeated St. Louis, 6 to 2, in the first game of a doubleheader today, rain caused the postponement of the second contest.

Although the rain fell throughout the game, the Red Sox gave an excellent exhibition in the field and the fielding of Todt at first base and Scarritt's catch of Kress' foul in the ninth were outstanding defensive features. Despite the slippery condition of the ball, each pitcher gave only one base on balls.

Rothrock hit a home run in the sixth.

Giants Trim Reds Twice, 6-3, 10-4

Cincinnati, Sept. 9 (AP)—The New York Giants battered out a pair of victories over the Reds today in a storm-bound double header. After waiting nearly two hours to start, the Giants won the first game 6 to 3, then ran away with the five inning second 10 to 4.

Fred Lindstrom, New York third baseman, was injured in the first game when he slipped in the mud trying to field Swanson's sacrifice bunt. His leg was strained enough to force him out of the game.

Carl Hubbell and Fred Fitzsimmons, pitched effectively for the Giants in the two games, the former giving but ten hits in the opener. Fitzsimmons scored his sixth victory of the year over the Reds in the second contest. Luque and Ash worked for the Reds in the first game, Rixey finished the second after Kolp had been driven from the mound in the second inning. Terry got three hits, including a homer with two on base, to bring his total for the year to 202 blows.

CUBS CLOSER TO PENNANT

Nose Out Boston Braves, 4-3, in Ninth-Inning Rally

Chicago, Sept. 9 (AP)—The Cubs moved closer to the National League pennant today by staging a ninth inning rally to beat out the Boston Braves, 4 to 3, in the final game of the series. They remained 13 games ahead of Pittsburgh and need but eight more victories to clinch the flag.

The game, halted twice by showers, was a stern chase for Chicago. Hack Wilson gave them a tie at 2-2 in the seventh inning with his 37th home run of the year. The blow gave him a tie with Chuck Klein for the league lead. Root walked in a run for the Braves in the ninth but Stephenson again tied the count with a homer. A single by Tolson and Taylor's double brought the winning run.

Root gave the Braves 11 hits in gaining his 16th victory of the season while Percy Jones held the Cubs to eight.

BOXING CARD IS ANNOUNCED

Principals in 32 Rounds of Fighting Here Are Named

The matches, which will comprise the 32-round fight program at the Coliseum on Thursday night, Sept. 19, were announced yesterday by Frank (Kid) Parker, promoter of the boxing show.

In the main go, Jack O'Neil, 165 pound Cleveland negro, will mix it with Jack Scarton, heavyweight battler of Detroit. Scarton is managed by Jimmy Brady, former Sault Ste. Marie lightweight, and is now training at Parker's gymnasium at Trout Lake. The scrap will be for 10 rounds.

Jimmy Nuss, the Newberry mauler, will engage Ben Dishaw, Iron Mountain, in the semi-windup. This promises to be a real battle also, and is scheduled for eight rounds.

"Tiger" Johnson of Escanaba and Clyde Rogers of Manistique will clash in a six-round event. In two four-round curtain raising fights, Tom Morgan of Gladstone will meet Dewey Duncan of Escanaba; and Joe LaFleur of Escanaba will exchange fisticuffs with Earl Marsh of Munising, colored.

The Scarton-O'Neil fracas promises to be one of the best matches ever staged in Escanaba. Scarton has met all the best middleweights in the middle west, and has scored nineteen knockouts in his last 26 fights. He has often been called the second Stanley Ketchell as he resembles the late middleweight champion in physical features and in fighting style. He is rated as being one of the best crowd pleasers in the game as he knows nothing but fighting after he climbs through the ropes.

Scarton is also well known in the upper peninsula by his sensational bouts against Curley Nelson of Marquette, Mickey Taylor and Soldier Kopp, the coast guard champion at Sault Ste. Marie. He had the tough Curley Nelson on the floor six times at Marquette, and only a very sore hand kept him from stopping Nelson before the finish. In his bouts at Sault Ste. Marie, he gave Mickey Taylor a bad beating for ten rounds and he put over the old knock-out punch on Soldier Kopp in two rounds, which no easy thing to do as all fans know.

O'Neil is a rising heavyweight fighter, who has met such well known pugilists as George Godfrey, Tom Heeney, Johnnie Risko and Tiger Flowers. He will be a worthy opponent for Scarton.

BIG SIX BATSMEN

(By The Associated Press)

With the entire American League membership of the Big Six kept idle by rain yesterday, F. O'Doul showed the way to the rest by his performance at St. Louis, and incidentally added a point to his batting average. O'Doul got a single, a triple and a homer in five times at bat to lift his mark to .399. Rogers Hornsby remained where he was in the averages with one hit in two tries while, Babe Herman lost a point with one out of five.

The Standing:

Phils Rout Cards 9-3 to Win Series

St. Louis, Sept. 9 (AP)—The Phillies won the last of the four games with the Cards here today carrying off the series, 3 to 1. The score was 9 to 3. The Cards got their thre runs in the third inning. The Phillies were aided today by O'Doul's homer in the third, but increased their score by five runs on six hits in the fifth. Hallahan, Cardinal pitcher got credit for losing the game. He was relieved after the eighth by Haid. President Heydler of the National League, witnessed the game.

St. Joe Grid Squad Looking for Tackle

With the exception of one tackle position St. Joseph's high school eleven is fairly intact for the season, Coach Leo Brunelle stated yesterday. Only one varsity man is returning in the backfield which will be composed almost entirely of new faces.

Blocking, tackling, and other fundamentals of the game are being emphasized in this week's practice sessions.

St. Joseph's meets Gladstone in the Upbay city in two weeks.

ROCK DEFEATS LITTLE LAKE

Good Support Aids Trudell to Win, 7-2, Over Stuck

Rock, Sept. 8, (Special)—Playing errorless ball behind the airtight pitching of "Shady" Trudell, the Rock baseball team defeated the highly-touted Little Lake team on the latter's diamond Sunday by a 7 to 2 score.

The first five innings was a nice pitching duel between "Speed Ball" Stuck and Trudell, with the latter having the upper hand, 2 to 1, by virtue of better support. In the second inning, a single and a double put Little Lake in the lead. Rock tied the score in the third and took a one run lead in the fourth on an error, two singles and two fielder's choices. In the sixth Rock scored four runs on three hits, two errors and a sacrifice to put the game "on ice." Little Lake scored in the eighth and Rock finished the scoring with one in the ninth.

Trudell allowed eight hits, and struck out thirteen. Stuck allowed nine and struck out eight. Trudell was very effective in the pinches and his support was the same.

GAP IN LINE BOTHERS JONES

Army Mentor Silent on Prospects for Coming Season

BY BRIAN BELL
(Ass'd Press Sports Writer)

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 9 (AP)—Head Coach Biff Jones grunted when asked if the 1929 Army football team will be as good as that of 1928. There was no indication whether the Biffian grunt was affirmative or negative. It may have suggested uncertainty.

If Captain Jones is in doubt and waiting for additional returns, it is possible that two young stalwarts may have as much as any other pair to do with the writing of the verdict.

Ed Suarez from down Mobile way, and Paul Miller, later of the Pennsylvania national guard, are attempting to convince the coach that they can fill a yawning chasm in the middle of the Army line. Suarez, only 20 years old but weighing 190 pounds, is a guard. Miller, another 190 pounder, is a center. Army needs guards and centers.

Plenty of Backs

There are plenty of experienced backs, led by Captain Keener Cagle, a running-passing player with the way of an eel and early training as a contortionist. The flanks are well protected with half a dozen good ends and adequate tackles are in prospect. The question marks are placed squarely in the middle of the line.

Suarez and Miller are great prospects and if they retain their health should fit into any Army scheme. Charley Humber probably will get a guard position. George Washington Perry is a tackle good enough to play on any team and Bill Parham, Dan Spengler, Coulhlin and MacLean are standing by ready to answer a summons.

PACKERS BEGIN FALL PRACTICE

Green Bay Has Greatest Eleven in History; Hard Sked

Green Bay—The greatest football team that ever donned the gold and blue of the Green Bay Packers started practice here last Sunday in preparation for the opening game of the 1929 season, which is scheduled on Sept. 15 with the Portsmouth, O., Spartans, an aggregation headed by Bennett, the Indiana star who won the 1928 western conference most valuable player award.

Capt. Lambeau's club plays its first six games at home and then tours for the rest of the season. The Packers are booked for four contests in Chicago while the eastern trip includes arguments with New York, Philadelphia and Providence, three of the topnotch elevens in the National league.

The Packers' schedule, one of the toughest ever arranged for the Badger state champions, is as follows:

Tough Schedule.

Sept. 15—Portsmouth, O., at Green Bay.
Sept. 22—Dayton at Green Bay.
Sept. 29—Chicago Bears at Green Bay.
Oct. 6—Chicago Cardinals at Green Bay.
Oct. 13—Philadelphia at Green Bay.
Oct. 20—Minneapolis at Green Bay.
Oct. 27—Green Bay at Chicago Cardinals.
Nov. 3—Green Bay at Minneapolis.
Nov. 10—Green Bay at Chicago Bears.
Nov. 17—Green Bay at Chicago Cardinals.
Nov. 24—Green Bay at New York Giants.
Nov. 28—Green Bay at Philadelphia.
Dec. 1—Green Bay at Providence.
Dec. 8—Green Bay at Chicago Bears.

The Packer management has gone the limit this season to round up an aggregation of championship caliber and, on paper, the club looks as good as any on the post-graduate gridiron.

Only five members of the great 1928 team, O'Boyle, Earpe, Marks, Lollar and Jones, are missing from the line up but such splendid new material as Michaleske, Cal Hubbard, Don Hill, Bo Molenda, Bill Kern and the return of Cully Lidberg more than offsets their absence.

Four All-Americas.

The Packers have four all-American pro players in their line up. Lewellen, halfback, and Dilweg, end, are veterans of the Packer squad while Michaleske, guard, and Hubbard, center, were all-Americans for two successive seasons. Michaleske captained the New York Yankees while Hubbard was field general for the New York Giants.

Green Bay fans are counting on some super performances at fullback this season because in Bo Molenda of Michigan and Lidberg of Minnesota, the Packers proudly boast of two of the best plungers in the league.

Lewellen, Kotal and Baker are the veteran backs while Hill and Blood are the new additions. At quarter, Red Dunn, the famous Marquette red-head, will again be master of ceremonies and there isn't a smarter signal caller in the country.

In Dilweg, Nash and O'Donnell, a trio of veterans, the Packers have nothing to worry in regards to their ends. This trio is mighty hard to beat. Ashmore, Perry, Cahoon and Kern, a Pittsburgh star, will perform at the tackles while five good guards, Michaleske, Minick, Young, Bowdoin and Woodin are available for duty. Cal Hubbard will play the duties at center with 'Boob' Darling, who is starting his third year with the Packers.

The make up of the Packer squad is as follows:

Centers—Hubbard, Geneva; and Darling, Beloit.

Guards—Michaleske, Penn State; Minick, Iowa; Young, Ohio State; Bowdoin, Alabama; Woodin, Marquette.

Tackles — Ashmore, Ganzaga; Perry, Alabama; Kern, Pittsburgh; Cahoon, Gonzaga.

Ends—Dilweg, Marquette; Nash, Georgia; O'Donnell, Minnesota.

Quarterbacks—Dunn, Marquette; Bloodgood, Nebraska.

Halfbacks—Lewellen, Nebraska; Kotal, Lawrence; Baker, California; Hill, Stanford; Blood, St. Thomas.

Fullbacks—Molenda, Michigan; Lidberg, Minnesota.

THREE INJURED IN CAR CRASH

Boy Driver Attempts to Pass Auto, Goes in Ditch

Three persons were injured, one of them seriously, when the car in which they were riding went into the ditch near Narenta Monday afternoon at about four o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. A. Benson and their son aged about twenty and Mrs. Benson's father, Joseph Reimer, aged 76 of of Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., were the occupants of the car, when the boy who was driving attempted to pass another car and went into the ditch.

Mrs. Benson, aged 44, sustained a severe cut on the forehead and a bad cut on the arm which necessitated a number of stitches to close the wound. Mr. Reimer had his scalp almost torn off and is in a very critical condition. Mr. Benson sustained a broken nose but remained with the car until a wrecker came to take it to a local garage. The boy was uninjured.

The car was badly damaged and Mr. Benson went to St. Francis Hospital later to have his injuries dressed. The three patients are suffering from shock.

Denies Connection Between He and Shearer

Washington, Sept. 9 (AP) — Prompt denial that there has been any connection between Rear Admiral Hilary J. Jones, retired, and William B. Shearer, big navy advocate formerly in the employ of American shipbuilding corporations, was made today by President Hoover, who said the admiral "deserves the highest appreciation for his public service."

The president's denial was made in a telegram sent to Representative McClintic, of Oklahoma, a Democrat of the house naval committee, who, in a message to the White House, had suggested such a connection during the 1927 Geneva naval limitation conference at which Admiral Jones was a delegate for the United States and Shearer was active against any agreement for further limitation of the American navy.

Admiral Jones, one of the foremost naval officers of his time, added his own denial when questioned during a visit to the White House to discuss with the president the present naval limitation negotiations with Great Britain.

Not Acquainted

"I never say him (Shearer) before the Geneva conference," he said.

"Did you see him then?" he was asked.

"I spoke to him just once," the admiral replied.

The president's telegram to Mr. McClintic, sent before Admiral Jones reached the White House, follows:

"I have your telegram of September 7th. You are entirely mistaken as to any connection between Admiral Hilary Jones and the gentleman you mention. They have never even had acquaintance and I have ample reason to know that there could not possibly be such a relationship as you suggest. I do hope thtat you will accept my assurance that there is a mistake. Admiral Jones deserves the highest appreciation for his public service."

Exonerates Officers

Along with these denials came one from Shearer at New York that he had stated that Rear Admirals Samuel S. Robinson, Charles P. Plunkett, William V. Pratt and Henry A. Wiley had furnished him information from the confidential files of the navy department concerning the relative strength of the navies of the world and other data.

Secretary Adams said he was confident that no improper relations had existed at any time between high naval officers and Shearer. He added that his department was cooperating with the inquiry being conducted by the department of justice at the direction of President Hoover and that it would supply "the extensive" information it has on Shearer to the senate naval committee if that body desired it.

This committee completed plans for its session tomorrow at which it will determine whether there is to be an investigation of Shearer's activities at Geneva as suggested by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, and a strong advocate of naval disarmament. It appeared certain that such an inquiry would be ordered for the very near future.

Shearer to Testify

Shearer himself announced that he would come here tomorrow ready to appear before the committee, which also is expected to call high officers of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, The American Brown Boveri Electric Corporation and the Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock company the concerns Shearer is suing for more than $250,000 for "services" as their representative.

A number of high officers of the navy also will be invited to appear, particularly if it should be disclosed that the confidential information of the navy department which Shearer claims was sent to him anomyously from Washington was of high importance.

PERFECT METAL WORKERS' GOAL

Metallurgists Approach Ideal; Few Years More Needed

Cleveland, Sept. 9 (AP)—A perfect industrial metal, embodying the properties of all those now in use, is the goal which metallurgists hope to reach in a few more years of research.

The new metal must be stronger than steel, lighter than aluminum, heat-resistant and tough, "in short, a perfect metal for all industrial uses." Dr. Jay Jefferies president of the American society for steel treating, told the national metal congress at the opening of its meeting today.

"And that is not just a dream, for research in the last year has brought forth metals that very nearly approach this ideal," Dr. Jeffries said. The greatest progress so far, he explained has been along the lines of nitrating steel for hard-surfacing and in the development of stainless steel and iron aluminum and chromium alloys are, of course, coming into greater and greater use, he continued, "and the ultimate all-purpose metal probably will be one of these alloys. The steel industry, however, will not be hurt by the competition of aluminum; rather, it will be helped through the greater use of metal for all purposes."

Dr. Jeffries said there was little to fear from depletion of Lake Superior iron ore beds.

Display Cutting Tools

One of the most interesting discoveries on display at the national metals exposition, Dr. Jeffries said, was the cemented Tungsten Carbide cutting tools, used in high-speed parts cutting. The material is as hard as sapphire and can be easily welded to the tips of steel cutting tools. The material at present is valued at about $470 a pound.

Besides Dr. Jeffries, today's speakers included G. M. Eaton, Pittsburgh, on "dilation of steel during quenching;" H. B. Knowiton, Fort Wayne, Ind., on "economical re-use of solid carbonizing materials;" H. W. McQuaid and O. W. McMullan, Detroit on "selection of case-hardened steels for highly stressed gears;" Dr. Anson Hayes, Middletown, Ohio; H. G. Keshian, Waterbury, Conn.; and W. J. Merten, Pittsburgh.
